Whirled Upward in Trade —Commercial Solvents Up 26 Points.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, June 4.—Sharp recovery took place in grain and stock prices today in reflection of a more cheerful speculative sentiment. The rally of 5 to 6 cents a bushel in wheat and corn prices was based on anticipations of a large Government appropriation to take care of the surplus crop and this, coupled with a more comfortable credit situation, stimulated the rise in securities prices.

Call money held steady at 7 per cent all day despite the large return flow of June 1 dividend and interest checks. Reports of a shipment of $1,000,000 in gold from London to New York, the first consignment since the Bank of England raised its discount rate, coupled with recent shipments from the Argentine, had a bullish effect on speculative sentiment.

High-Priced Specialties Spurt.
High-priced specialties were whirled upward in recent speculative fashion. Commercial Solvents recorded an extreme gain of 36 points and Hooking Valley Railroad added 21 points to its 13-point gain of yesterday, touching a new high at 359.

Radio was heavily bought in the late trading, crossing 91 for a net gain of 4 1/2 points. Sears-Roebuck recorded an extreme gain of 9 points and Wright Aeronautical, Montgomery-Ward, Marmon Motors, United Aircraft, National Cash Register, Curtiss Aeroplane, American Machine and Foundry and Greene Cananea Copper sold 5 to 8 1/2 points above last night's final quotations. Case Threshing ran up 9 1/2 points, lost practically all its gain and then jumped points above yesterday's final price in the last few minutes of trading.

A Few Soft Spots.
There were a few soft spots.
Motor products broke eight points to a new low of 9 1/2. Alcoa closed three points lower on selling influenced by President Stor-v's denial of stock dividend rumors.

The sugar market held fairly steady on rumors that the Hoover was opposed to the proposed duty on the product in the tariff bill now before the House of Representatives. A lot of 5000 bags of Porto Rican sugar was sent to an outlet refinery yesterday at 2 1/2 cents a pound, a new low record for the season. Cotton prices rallied $1 to nearly $2 a bale after an early interval of heaviness.

Foreign exchanges were mixed.
Sterling cables held steady around $4.84 1/2. Japanese yen recovered practically all of their half cent drop of yesterday, but renewed weakness of Spanish exchange carried the market to a new low level below 13.75 cents.

Crude Oil Increase Reported.
Indications that crude oil output of domestic fields has reached a new high record this week, tending to check the latest buying movement, which carried the petroleum stocks into renewed prominence yesterday. Reports of the Russia Oil and Gas Journal indicate the daily output for the week ended June 1 last showed an increase of 41,300 barrels, averaging 2,719,723 barrels. This compares with the previous record peak daily output of 2,704,319 barrels, established in the week ended March 2 last. The increase, incidentally, was accounted for entirely by high gravity oil, which averaged 42.494 barrels ahead of the previous week.

The decrease of slightly less than $110,000,000 in stock exchange member loans, or about half of earlier estimates, was somewhat of a disappointment to many traders, although it failed to check the recovery in prices which set in yesterday. Buying orders were again distributed over a fairly wide list, with the oils and public utilities in the forefront of the early advance.

Closing stock prices with other tables and market news will be found on pages 35, 36 and 37.

ROBBERS DRIVEN AWAY BY TEAR GAS
AFTER DRILLING SAFEAutomatic Release of Protecting Fluid Routs Them From Illinois Bank.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
CARTERVILLE, Ill., June 4.—
Tear gas automatically released when robbers cut a hole in the vault door in the Cambria State Bank, three miles west of here, early today drove the men away without loss, according to Ben Lovel, cashier, who discovered the attempt when he opened the bank at 8 o'clock.

The robbers gained an entrance to the building by prying open a rear window, after cutting the light and telephone wires. They then cut a hole 18 by 12 inches in the vault door with an acetylene torch, but by that time the tear gas, released when the wires were cut, became strong enough to rout them.

The men then fled, supposedly in a car seen to leave the rear of the building early this morning.
They took all their tools, but apparently nothing from the bank.

Cashier Lovel had been unable to get into the vault at 11 o'clock this morning because of the gas, but said, after an inspection through the door hole with a flash light, that nothing appeared to have been disturbed.

The cashier informed Sheriff Oren Coleman that he believed his house had been watched last night, as a stranger had been seen near the home several times but no attention had been paid to him.

SAYS SUBMARINE EARTHQUAKE SANK SHIP IN ALASKAN BAYCaptain of Aleutian Testifies to Change In Ocean Bottom.

By the Associated Press.
SEATTLE, June 4.—To a submarine earthquake which caused an upheaval in the floor of Yak Bay, Kodiak Island, Alaska, is attributed the wreck on May 26 of the SS. Aleutian.

At an investigation here by United States inspectors, Capt. J.
G. Nord, and other officers of the Aleutian testified the ship struck a rock and sank where charts showed a depth of from 168 to 294 feet, ripping open the bottom of the ship.

Those at the hearing blamed an earthquake for the apparent change in the ocean's bottom.

The Aleutian, valued at $1,000-000 was a total loss.

INTERNATIONAL SHOE CO.

Protesting A $1,000 Valuation on Each.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—The International Shoe Co., with headquarters in St. Louis, today filed with the Supreme Court a petition asking for a review of the court's decision of May 13 sustaining the Missouri franchise tax imposed on it. The Supreme Court sustained the State in applying a valuation of $100 a share to stock of the corporation issued without par value.

The company contended it received only $9.60 a share for the stock and complained that the State proposed to increase its annual franchise tax from approximately $25,000 to a sum in excess of $100,000.

STATE HABITUAL
CRIMINAL LAW
HELD IN FORCEMissouri Supreme Court Decides That It Is Not Repealed by the Bates Act of 1927.AFFIRMS SENTENCE IMPOSED ON ROBBERRules Edward Taylor, Chief Witness Against Whom Was Murdered, Must Serve Life Term.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
JEFFERSON CITY, June 4.—
The conviction and life sentence of Edward Taylor of St. Louis, for robbery, under the habitual criminal law, were affirmed today by the Missouri Supreme Court, in a decision holding that the habitual criminal act was not repealed nor affected by the passage by the 1927 Legislature of the Bates law, providing additional penalties up to life imprisonment for successive convictions of crime committed with the aid of deadly weapons.

The ruling does not go into the validity of the Bates law, passed two years ago, but so far untested in the higher courts, but does hold definitely that the Bates law does not disturb the habitual criminal act, thereby settling a point that has been in doubt among lawyers.

Basis of Appeal.
Taylor was charged with participating in a robbery of the Nick-lin Tannery Co., 409 South Second street, St. Louis, on Aug. 13, 1927.
In which four armed men obtained about $300. He also was charged with violation of the habitual criminal law, on evidence of a previous conviction of a felony.

Jury assessed a life imprisonment sentence, as authorized by the habitual criminal act.

On appeal attorneys for Taylor attacked the conviction, contending the habitual criminal law was repealed by the Bates law, which carries a provision that all laws inconsistent with it are repealed.

The Bates act was introduced in the 1927 Legislature by State Senator W. M. Bates of St. Louis. It provided that when any person was convicted of a felony, or attempting to commit a felony, while armed with a pistol or other deadly weapon, the punishment provided for the crime by existing law shall be increased by two years, by the trial judge. Upon second conviction of a felony so committed, 10 years shall be added, upon a third conviction, 15 years, and upon a fourth conviction, the punishment shall be life imprisonment.

Holds Laws Not in Conflict.
Presiding Judge David E. Blair of Division No. 2 of the Court, who wrote the opinion, held there was no conflict between the two laws.
The other Judges of Division No. 2 concurred.

"Neither statute affects the nature of the crimes of which the accused on trial may be found to be guilty," Judge Blair wrote, "but both affect the extent of the punishment which may be imposed. We fail to find any conflict in the two statutes although it is perfectly apparent that both cannot be effectively applied to the punishment in all cases at the same time.
Conflict is not engendered by the mere fact that there may be cases where the provisions of both statutes cannot be applied effectively."

Judge Blair pointed out that the Supreme Court previously had fully upheld the constitutionality of the habitual criminal law, in other cases, in disposing of an attack by Taylor's attorneys upon validity of the law.

Chief Witness Murdered.
Taylor was convicted largely through the testimony of O'Dell Slattery, 18-year-old Negro, who was employed in a blacksmith shop in the vicinity of the holdup. Before the trial of Elmer Schneider and Joseph Buschman, jointly charged with Taylor, was held, Slattery was kidnapped and killed.
Schneider and Buschman were convicted, however, and sentenced to life imprisonment upon the testimony of "Honest John" Berne, blacksmith who employed Slattery.
Berne had been sent to the penitentiary in connection with a robbery charge. He was persuaded by police to return to St. Louis with the consent of prison officials, to testify against the two men. As a result he was killed later by Gov. Baker.

Joseph Troup and Joseph Passa-flume were sentenced to 10 years each in the penitentiary for the kidnaping of Slattery.

NEGOTIATIONS ON FOR HIGH SCHOOL
IN FOREST PARKEducation Board to Open Formal Conversations Soon for Site Facing Oakland for New Central.OFFICIALS OF CITY ARE NON-COMMITTALGround in View, It Is Said, Is Needed Because It Is Suitable for an Athletic Field.

Formal negotiations between the Board of Education and city officials will be opened within the next few days for the acquisition of a site in Forest Park, at the southeast corner, for a new Central High School.

A majority of the Board of Education favors the proposal. It is known that an informal discussion has been carried on for some time between board members and Director of Public Welfare Salisbury and Park Commissioner Pape, but the city officials have not committed themselves.

The site desired by the Board of Education is about 500 feet west of Kingshighway, facing Oakland avenue and directly opposite St.
Louis University High School, which is on the south side of Oakland, the south boundary of Forest Park. Space measuring 200x300 feet is required for the building, together with adjacent athletic grounds.

A high school in the growing southeastern section of the city is a necessity, the Board of Education has decided, but after a careful inquiry it reports it has been unable to find any other suitable location that would provide sufficient ground for athletic fields. Modern educational practice regards such fields as essential to a high school. On May 23 the board voted to spend $1,250-000 for construction of a new Central High, exclusive of the cost of the site, with the understanding that it would be built in the southwestern district.

The city is planning to establish a new street paralleling Oakland avenue and separated from Oakland only by the right-of-way of the Market car line, along the southern edge of Forest Park, between Kingshighway and Clayton avenue, as a traffic relief measure.

Would Pay for Street.
Cost of this thoroughfare has been estimated at $150,000, and the city has proposed bearing half of this and assessing the other half against the property to the south. Members of the Board of Education favoring the park site for Central High say the board is willing to pay the city enough for the ground desired in the park to meet the entire cost of this street and leave a cash balance for the city.

The South Forest Park Improvement Association adopted a resolution recently, protesting against the plan because it would be a complete road and not a restricted park drive.

The city has talked of the construction of a large athletic bowl in Forest Park, a short distance west of the land sought for the high school, in connection with the current work of converting River des Peres into a sewer beneath the park. This idea arose during consideration of the problem of what to do with excess earth from the sewer excavation.

Board of Education members have promised that the board would collaborate financially or otherwise in building the bowl and would relieve the city of the expense of maintaining a public place. They likewise have agreed that the board would maintain the proposed athletic field and a playground, making these facilities open to the general public except during school hours.

An auditorium seating about 2500 persons, which would be available for public use outside of school hours, would be included in the high school. The board regards this as a distinct asset to the neighborhood. An ornate building is proposed, in keeping with the appearance of others in the park. Board members point to the presence of the Art Museum, Zoo and Jefferson Memorial in Forest Park as educational structures setting a precedent for their suggestion. They argue that the southeastern corner of the park is comparatively unimproved and useless now.

Park Commissioner Pape said he had not committed himself to the project, but his first impulse was to say the school should not be built in the park.

proprietor of the Rex Bowling Alleys, 111 North Sixth street, and George Newman, 24, linotype operator employed by the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, drowned today when fishing in a quarry pond three miles south of St. Charles.

Pflueger and Newman, accompanied by Otto Grelich, superintendent of the engraving department at the Globe-Democrat, and Mrs. Grelich, drove to the quarry, which was stocked with trout a number of years ago and is popular as a fishing place. After fishing for a time, the party had lunch and then Pflueger and Newman set out in a boat to fish near the center of the pond. Grelich assisted his wife in carrying lunch baskets to the boat. While some distance from the shore, Grelich heard a cry for help and ran back in time to see his companions sink under the weight of their boat had capsized.

Grelich summoned help, but first efforts to recover the bodies were unavailing. The water in the pond, which is fed by springs, is extremely cold, and parts of the abandoned quarry are reported to be more than 50 feet deep. Grelich expressed the opinion that the boat used by Pflueger and Newman was not large enough for two men, and he thinks one of them caused the skiff to capsize in casting his line into the water.

Widely known as a bowler, Pflueger lived at 5955 Romaine place with his wife and son. Newman resided at 4410 South Spring avenue.

SINCLAIR'S TOTAL TIME IN JAIL TO BE 7 1/2 MONTHS

Prosecutor Says Oil Magnate Will Start Serving Second Sentence as Soon as First Term Ends.

DAYS A MONTH OFF FOR GOOD BEHAVIOR

1. Mason Day Must Serve 4 Months With Employer for Shadowing Jury, Supreme Court Decides.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—After completing his present 90-day sentence in the District of Columbia for contempt of the Senate, Harry F. Sinclair must serve an additional six months on the charges growing out of the jury shadowing which caused a mistrial in the Fall-Sinclair oil conspiracy case in the fall of 1927.

Of the others brought to trial in the same contempt of court case, whose appeals were covered in a column given yesterday by the Supreme Court, William J. Burns alone was exempted from serving the sentence imposed. The court ruled that the evidence failed to show the former head of the Burns Detective Agency was in any way responsible for the shadowing of the jury and set aside the 15-day term which had been imposed upon him.

Henry Mason Day of New York, vice president of the Sinclair Exploration Co., who employed the Burns detectives who shadowed the jurors, must serve four months in jail. W. Sherman Burns, who had active charge of the detective agency at the time, must pay a $1000 fine.

5 Days a Month Deducted. The multi-millionaire oil man, now working in the jail pharmacy, refused to discuss the decision.

District Attorney Leo Rorer, who prosecuted the contempt of court case, said Sinclair would begin serving the second sentence as soon as he had completed the present term. The District Attorney said he would be entitled to five days a month off each sentence for good behavior, which would require him to serve at least seven and one-half months in jail from the time of his commitment May 6.

The Supreme Court decision was unanimous, except that Justice Stone did not participate. He was attorney-general while some of the oil scandals cases were before the court.

Justice McReynolds, in delivering the opinion, said 15 Burns agents came to Washington "to spy upon, investigate and shadow jurors." These agents, the court said, investigated embassies on the same of one jury, investigated the family of another and made false reports concerning a third. Day admitted, it added, that the agents had been employed by direction of Sinclair.

The principal grounds of defense in the trial, Justice McReynolds explained, was that it was essential for the Government to show some act of contact between the detectives and a juror.

An Obstruction of Justice. The acts disclosed tended, he said, "to obstruct the honest and fair administration of justice."

The mere suspicion by a juror that he, his family and friends are under surveillance by detectives was held to be enough "to destroy the equilibrium of the average juror and render impossible the exercise of calm judgment."

The jury shadowing had resulted in a mistrial, a result which would often happen under such circumstances, the opinion declared, adding that the acts complained of were sufficiently near the court to constitute contempt. It was no defense, the court added, for Sinclair and his associates to contend that the Department of Justice, at the request of District Attorney Burns, had assigned agents to guard jurors.

The record showed, it pointed out, that Sinclair and his associates had a proper hearing before the trial court, with opportunity to put forward any defense and explanations desired, and that the sentences imposed were not excessive except in the case of William J. Burns.

Woman Found Slain and Friend, Whose Story Led to Suspect's Arrest

FREUDISM CENTER OF LAW SUIT OVER M'CORMICK HEIR

Cormick, his sister, Mrs. Anita McCormick Blaine, and their brother, Cyrus H. McCormick, all of Chicago.

The story which she has brought into court is of Arabian Nights quality, a world dream of doctors' bills, psychological theory and fabulous luxury. Over all hangs the tragic misfortune of insanity.

Stanley McCormick, son of the inventor of the reaper, was active in the family business and in promoting the merger which, in 1902, made the International Harvester Co., which brought him wealth estimated now between $35,000,000 and $50,000,000. In 1904 he married Katherine Dexter, who had just graduated from Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

About two years later he was taken to his home in Santa Barbara, where he now is surrounded by the utmost luxury. He has his own orchestra, a motion picture theater, a small army of servants and Dr. Kempf. It costs $150,000 a year to keep up the place alone.

Kempf Makes New Diagnosis. Dr. Kempf came into the case two years ago, with Dr. William A. White, Superintendent of St. Elizabeth's Hospital at Washington. The case, hitherto called dementia praecox was then diagnosed as "malignant neurosis." Mrs. McCormick still maintains it is "dementia praecox of catatonic type."

Previously every aid known to medical science was invoked, and scores of the most eminent specialists were consulted in vain. Fortunes were spent. Mrs. McCormick, who says that for the 20 years preceding 1927 she was not permitted to see her husband, searched the world for some medical magic to regain him.

For 10 years before 1927, Stanley McCormick was in the care of Dr. Adolf Meyer of Johns Hopkins University and Dr. Nathan H. Brush, Dr. White and Dr. Kempf were called in, with a contract for one year.

There was talk of taking the patient East, closer to medical experts, and the wife says Dr. Kempf connected "a grange house" for a vast Long Island dwelling, with a provision to extend his contract for several years.

Relies on Psychoanalysis Alone. Dr. Kempf, she says, refused to carry out his agreement to call in the best resources of diagnosis and internal medicine, excluded the guardians from seeing the patient, and relied solely on his own psychiatric methods. The psychoanalysis is harmful, she maintains, and is alienating her husband's affections.

As to her co-guardians: "There have been other differences of opinion, but the principal difference arises from the fact that they persist in retaining at an extravagant salary a medical attendant whose procedures are defective, if not harmful, and whose aim is to break down the bond between her husband and herself."

In their demurrer and petition for her plea be set aside, the co-guardians cite a disagreement before 1927, concerning Dr. Thomas W. Salmon of Columbia University, who was engaged in January, 1927, to take direct charge of the case, but Mrs. McCormick's insistence that he bury the severance of his New York engagements resulted in his withdrawal.

Guardians Deny Her Charges. In general they deny her charges, state she knew that it would take more than a year to effect a psychoanalytic cure, and insist Dr. White and Dr. Kempf did not exclude efforts to determine whether the patient was bodily ill.

They say Mrs. McCormick has long been convinced that endocrine glands are the source of mental trouble, and had insisted on and feeding without proper diagnosis.

The answer says Dr. Kempf asked her to come to Santa Barbara for two or three weeks in 1927, but she took a house and stayed several months, visiting her husband almost daily. Her failure to co-operate with the doctors is given as the reason she was asked to leave Santa Barbara in the spring of 1928.

Improvement in Stanley McCormick's condition is shown, the answer says, noting that he now takes active interest in the care of his estate, in swimming, in exercise, in music, in pictures; that he reads books and papers and discusses current events.

WARRANTS ISSUED FOR MRS. CASSLER AND SON IN KILLING

Chicago Woman Accused of Murdering Housekeeper of Husband—Body Found in Swamp.

By the Associated Press.

VALPARAISO, Ind., June 4.—Warrants for the arrest of Mrs. Catherine Cassler and her 19-year-old son, Edward, were issued today by Prosecutor W. W. Bozarth, after he had filed an affidavit in Circuit Court charging them with murder. It was expected they would be served when Mrs. Cassler completed her testimony at the inquest into the death of Miss Camellia Soutar.

CHICAGO, June 4.—Mrs. Catherine Cassler, 40 years old, testified today at a coroner's inquest at Valparaiso, Ind., into the death of Miss Camellia Soutar, 24, whose body was found in a swamp near Hebron, Ind. Mrs. Cassler denied killing Miss Soutar but admitted beating her severely some time before the murder.

Mrs. Cassler was recently released after having been sentenced to hang for the murder of William Lindstrom. She obtained a new trial in that case and the death of an important witness and a refusal of another to testify made the prosecution impossible.

Cool as she had been throughout her trial for the murder of Lindstrom, she told how she had attacked Miss Soutar, a young divorcee who was housekeeper for Trumer Cassler while Mrs. Cassler was in jail here.

The trouble began hardly more than a month ago, after Mrs. Cassler was freed.

Mrs. Cassler said she did not wish to discuss the immediate cause of the fight with Miss Soutar. However, she said relations with Miss Soutar were much improved after the encounter and when the housekeeper came to the Cassler home for her trunk the meeting was friendly.

Mrs. Cassler declared she had no animosity against "Camille," although she knew her husband had been giving her money.

Mrs. Cassler was tested at the inquest last night as to her affair with Miss Soutar. He told of having lived with her while his wife was in jail and of having continued seeing her afterward in the face of threats from his wife. He saw her frequently before she was killed, he said, went riding with her and gave her $8 to pay her room rent.

Mrs. Lee Filkins told police last night that she had seen Mrs. Cassler leave her apartment Monday or Tuesday morning, in company with a young woman. After viewing newspaper photographs, she said she was convinced it was Miss Soutar.

as an internationalist might make him a valuable addition to a Labor Cabinet.

One woman was considered as almost certain of a Cabinet post, the first British woman to gain such a distinction. She is Miss Margaret Bondfield, the Labor party's first woman minister.

The Daily News, one of the chief Liberal organs, gave editorially today to the Labor party a "warning."

After recounting the main items of Liberal policy and mentioning the Liberal position as holding the balance of power, it said:

"If the Labor Government, putting aside the more extreme proposals of its election program, will concentrate on these great national issues we are convinced the Liberals will give Labor its fair chance to prove its capacity for statesmanship. But there will be a lamentable breakdown unless Mr. MacDonald changes in two important particulars which characterized his last term of office."

"First he must remember he is the servant not of his party's executive committee but of Parliament and the nation. And secondly, his attitude toward Liberal members must undergo a complete spiritual transformation."

"The Liberals will never again submit to the cheap, mean-spirited indignities to which Labor, in 1924, thought it to subject them and unless the ordinary human decency is preserved practical co-operation will be impossible."

CHIEF OF MEXICAN CRISTERO REBELS SLAIN IN BATTLE

Gen. Eurisue Goroztieta, Hater of Americans, Killed With Many of His Followers Near San Julian

By the Associated Press.

MEXICO CITY, June 4.—The supreme chief of the Cristeros, whose battle cry is "Long Live Christ the King," was being killed, and that hard-fighting army, minus its leader, today faced extinction.

An official announcement at Chapultepec Castle said Gen. Saturnino Cedillo, commanding the Federal army operating against the Cristeros in Central Mexico, had reported the death of Gen. Eurisue Goroztieta, chief of the so-called religious rebellion.

Gen. Cedillo said the body had been embalmed and was being sent to Mexico City to be turned over to relatives. He added that he expected, as a result of Gen. Goroztieta's death, to complete pacification of the troubled Jalisco districts by June 15.

Gen. Goroztieta's body, before being sent to Mexico City, was taken to Atotonilco and placed on public exhibition. It was said he had gathered his men about him at the Hacienda Ibarra more than a week ago and advised them to disperse, in view of a probable settlement soon of the church-state difficulties.

Overtaken by Federals. Yesterday he went to hear mass and then rejoined his troops at Hacienda Valle, near San Julian.

Troops of the Thirteenth Battalion commanded by Gen. Pablo Rodriguez, overtook them there and after surrounding them opened fire, killing many, among them Goroztieta, and capturing 16 of his officers. The report of Gen. Cedillo added that "the priest, Pedrosa," a lieutenant, was still at large.

Gen. Goroztieta was one of the Porfirio Diaz regime, who largely passed from power with the downfall of Victoriana Huerta.

Hater of "Gringos." He had an implacable hatred of "gringos" or Americans. He was chief of staff to Gen. Rubio Navarrete when President Huerta closed the ports to foreign ships and opposed American troops which had landed at Vera Cruz in 1914.

Before they could launch a counter attack against the city they were halted by governmental order. Dispatches to Mexico City news-

ADMITS MURDER OF GIRL, 6, AFTER SHE LEFT SCHOOL

California Wood Chopper Says He Waited in Woods for Victim, Attacked and Choked Her to Death.

By the Associated Press.

UKIAH, Cal., June 4.—Sheriff R. R. Byrnes announced today that Tom Lelew, 32 years old, a wood chopper, had confessed that he attacked and killed Teresa Johnson, 6, in the woods near Mendocino City last week.

"I just went haywire," Lelew told the Sheriff, who said a formal charge of murder would be placed against the man.

In his confession, Lelew told of waiting for the child to walk through the woods on her way home from school. As she came down the path, with her school books and lunch box in her arms, Lelew seized the child, attacked her, and then choked her to death.

By the Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Tex., June 4.—Reg. L. Robbins and James Kelly, who recently established a new world's endurance flight record of 172 hours, have been appointed Lieutenant-Colonels on the personal staff of Gov. Moody.

"Missouri made Lindbergh a Colonel and Texas is as great a State as Missouri," the Governor said in conferring the honorary titles on the aviators amid applause from the State Legislature.

"Robbins and Kelly have set a new high mark for courage and endurance that deserves the admiration of all people."

No military duties are connected with the appointments.

papers said that Gen. Bernardino Tapia, after holding out for two days against Federal troops at Cerro Grande, surrendered with 300 men.

The Federal troops, under Gen. Eulogio Olvera, surrounded the insurgent positions while Federal airplanes bombed them. One bomb dropped by a Federal aviator was said to have killed 70 persons. Fifty women taken near Cerro Grande Sunday will be sent to the island prison colony, Las Tres Marias.

PASSENGER ON VESTRIS ACCUSES SHIP'S OFFICERS

In Affidavit, H. C. W. Johnstone Says Every Person Might Have Been Saved.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, June 4.—Affidavits from passengers of the ill-fated liner Vestriss today followed the testimony of minor members of the crew before the British Board of Trade inquiry.

H. C. W. Johnstone, a Trinidad oil producer, made most serious charges against the conduct of the responsible officers of the ship.

"It is my considered opinion, with a full sense of responsibility for the seriousness of the statement I am making, that every person on board might have been saved had things not been left until the last moment," Johnstone declared.

He said that seven lifeboats on the starboard side could easily have been launched and the passengers all of whom had lifebelts, could have swam or floated on the life rafts.

Johnstone swam to one of the boats which Negro members of the crew had launched on the starboard side. He had great difficulty in getting the crew to row around the ship's bow in order to be at hand when the end came.

CANADA NOT TO ACT ON TREATY
By the Associated Press.

OTTAWA, Ont., June 4.—The treaty between Canada and the United States designed to conserve the sockeye salmon fisheries of the Fraser River will not be ratified by the Canadian Parliament at this session, Premier MacKenzie King remarked in the House of Commons today.

King referred to the fact that considerable difference of opinion with respect to the treaty had arisen in the Marine and Fisheries Committee of the Commons.

In view of this the Government has considered it inadvisable to proceed with the resolution providing for ratification of the treaty at this time.

NEW YORK CHINESE BURY THEIR DOCTOR

Funeral of Louis Hock Yen at 2 A. M.; With All of Chinatown on Sidewalks.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 4.—Louis Hock Yen, pioneer in the business of bringing herbs, roots and medicinal seeds from his native land to New York, was buried yesterday while all Chinatown stood on the sidewalk and bowed its respects.

A prominent member of the Chinese Nationalist party and one of the Soo Yuen Tang family, which numbers 1000 in this country, Louis, who was known as "The Doctor" in Chinatown, received honors rarely matched among Chinese. His body, after resting for three months in the vault at Cypress Hills, will be transported to Canton, China, where his widow awaits it. His son, Louis Yuen Yin, will accompany the body.

The funeral procession started at 2 a. m. First came two cars full of floral offerings from the Kung-ming and from other members of the Soo Yuen Tang family.

The hearse followed, with $2000 metal coffin. Six pallbearers, in heavy black, walked at each side of the hearse. Then came the picture of the deceased, borne on a triangular device covered with lilies and blackened laurel leaves. Next were the close members of the family, all holding handkerchiefs, their heads toward the ground. Finally there were the more distant cousins, nephews, and nieces, and 30 empty limousines. ST. LOUIS' AIR MAIL CAMPAIGN GAINS AID IN CONGRESS

Senator Hawes Offers to Arrange Meeting With Assistant Postmaster-General Glover.

Senator Harry B. Hawes and Congressman John J. Cochran have pledged their support to the campaign started by the Chamber of Commerce to obtain for St. Louis efficient air mail connections. Senator Hawes has offered to arrange a meeting with Assistant Postmaster-General Glover to discuss a St. Louis connection with a proposed mail route from Louisville, Ky., to Texas trade centers. A hearing on the advisability of establishing this route will be held at Washington, June 12, and it is likely that St. Louis will be represented.

Congressman Cochran, in a letter to the Chamber of Commerce yesterday, states, "I fully agree with you that St. Louis is not being taken care of in the way it should. You can depend on me keeping after this matter and doing all I can to bring about favorable action."

St. Louis business interests are demanding a direct mail route to New York because of the low percentage of ontime deliveries between Chicago and New York. St. Louisans are also alarmed because a projected transcontinental route ignores St. Louis. Illustrating the dissatisfaction of St. Louis business men with the present New York air mail connection is the statement of W. T. Jones, an attorney. Jones states that in a recent exchange of correspondence with a firm of New York attorneys duplicate letters were sent by air mail and regular mail. "I kept watch on the deliveries and in not a single instance was the air mail delivered ahead of the rail mail," Jones wrote the Chamber of Commerce.

The trouble with the service is due to unfavorable flying weather between Chicago and New York. The record of ontime deliveries between the two cities has been but 57 per cent efficient, according to data available here. On the other hand, the St. Louis-Chicago line, which last year carried 64,000 pounds of mail, has maintained an efficiency rating of 97.02 per cent over a period of three years.

A direct St. Louis-New York route would avoid the unfavorable Great Lakes region, making for more efficient service, experts have stated. As proposed to the Postoffice authorities, Columbus and Pittsburg would be stops on the route, which eventually could be extended to Los Angeles. Satisfactory arrangements for extending the service westward could be made, it is believed, with either Western Air Express, which last Saturday started operation of a 15-hour passenger schedule between Kansas City and Los Angeles, or Transcontinental Air Transport, Inc., which on July 5 will inaugurate train-plane service from coast-to-coast, with a stop at St. Louis. The radio campaign for adequate air mail service will be resumed tomorrow night at 10 o'clock over Station KWK, with Postmaster Michener as the speaker.

GYMNASIUM TO BE BUILT ON HOUSE OF DETENTION ROOF

Officials Think This Will Reduce Damage Done by Inmates; Cost to Be $31,000.

Following the recent action of the grand jury in denouncing conditions at the House of Detention and a survey which showed children are being held there as long as five months, instead of a maximum of 24 hours as was intended when the building was erected in 1918, plans have been approved for the construction of a gymnasium on the roof of the building.

The gymnasium, and inside remodeling will cost $37,125. Most of the remodeling, which is to cost $4545, is to repair damage caused by the inmates. By providing a gymnasium, city officials believe they can prevent further damage to the building.

WEDDING OF MRS. COREY WITH PRINCE REPORTED POSTPONED

Mother of Luis of Orleans Says Heirless Declines to Live With Him in Simplicity.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, June 4.—The London Express quotes the Infanta Eulalia as saying that Mrs. Mabelle Gilman Corey has declined to follow her son, Prince Luis of Orleans, in the simple life he has taken up and therefore the wedding of Mrs.

Corey and the Prince has been indefinitely postponed.

The newspaper prints what it calls an exclusive interview in which the Infanta says, "I bought by son a villa at San Reno and he is living there very happily. He has taken to gardening. It is so much healthier for him than the night life he used to follow. But now Mrs. Corey says she won't live with him down there and she wants him to come to her chateau."

The Infanta is further quoted as saying, "He wants her to come to him. I don't know which will give way, but I hope not my son."

"There is also the question of the marriage settlement. They do not agree about that, either. Mrs. Corey received $400,000 (about $2,000,000) from her late husband. She told him she did not think this such a tremendous amount of money after all. 'It is only about $700 monthly,' she said."

Mexico Ready to Admit Primates.

MEXICO CITY, June 4.—Although Archbishop Leopold Ruiz Flores of Michoacan has not yet asked to enter Mexico, Department

The announcement was made in answer to press reports that the Archbishop would return to Mexico within a week or two to confer with President Portes Gil with regard to settlement of the Mexican church-state controversy.

JUDGE ROSSKOPF PROPOSES HANDY BOOK FOR JURORS

Suggests That It Contain List of Duties and Glossary of Legal Terms.

Circuit Court jurors will be provided with a veritable "handy book" setting forth the duties of jurors and containing a glossary of legal terms translated into the language of the layman if a plan proposed by Judge Rosskopf at a general session of the judges incidental to the opening of the June term of court is adopted. The plan was referred to a committee yesterday.

Judge Rosskopf pointed out that many jurors were not aware of various technical aspects of their duties and were frequently confused by legal terms. Distribution of a circular, explaining in simple language the jury procedure, would make more efficient jurors, he said. Courts in several states have sanctioned the dissemination of such booklets, he added. The judges also authorized the sending of a letter to Mayor Miller, stating that the circuit bench has no objection to the holding of an exhibit of paintings of local artists sponsored by the St. Louis Art League in the rotunda of the courthouse from June 24 to October 1. Dies at 85. Unshaved for 64 Years. ST. JOSEPH, Mo., June 4.—John O. Trimmer, who participated in the California gold rush of 1849 and who at the time of President Lincoln's assassination vowed that he never would again shave, is dead here. He was 85. His beard was never touched by razor after his vow.

That millions might wear better shoes at lower cost

EIGHTEEN YEARS AGO the International Shoe Company came into existence. In common with those who have blazed the trail in other industries, it began its operations on the policy that the products of its industry could be made better, yet reach the wearer at lower cost.

Today International leads its industry.

In the interest of better shoes, it has invested millions of dollars and mobilized an army of men. These have been sent into every corner of the shoe and leather industry to develop and originate new standards and methods by which shoes can be bettered under conditions that, at the same time, will lower the price to the wearer.

Go into the hide markets of the world and you meet International buyers selecting the millions of hides its tanneries require. Enter these tanneries and you stand with men who are devoting lifetimes to further development of advanced tanning processes to make leather wear longer and look better. Cross the thresholds of its leather-working plants and you see skillful hands sorting, accepting, rejecting—guided toward constantly higher quality by improved standards and finer methods of grading.

This conquest of quality is the epic of the industry. From it has come International's traditional stand against substitution and its world-known policy of

"all leather" construction—a policy that provides leather wherever leather should be in every shoe from its highest-priced pair to its lowest.

Within its great chain of 43 specialty shoe plants, these better materials meet more efficient and more economical methods of manufacture. Each plant produces just one grade of men's, women's or children's shoes. Through such specialization it has been possible for this institution to join together the two seeming opposites—higher quality and lower prices.

TO PROVIDE adequate facilities for its tremendous production, to assure uniformity in its high standards of quality, and to effect the economies that lower the price you pay, the International Shoe Company owns and operates—

43 Specialty Shoe Factories, each making just one particular type and grade of shoe, together producing 50,000,000 pairs a year.

14 Tanneries, each specializing in one particular type of leather, producing 25,000 sides and skins a day.

1 Rubber Heel and Composition Sole Plant, producing 125,000 pairs of heels and 30,000 pairs of soles a day.

1 Cotton Mill, to produce 7,000,000 yards of lining fabric a year.

59 Auxiliary Plants, producing welting, dyes, chemicals, shoe boxes, shipping cartons, trunks, gloves, etc., to the value of more than $30,000,000 a year if purchased from outside sources.

Significant as all these developments are, International's interest in better shoes at a lower price has reached out still further into related industries to eliminate an imposing array of costs from the final price required to purchase quality.

It manufactures its own chemicals, dyes and finishes. It produces its own rubber heels, composition soles and lining fabric. It manufactures its own shoe boxes, shipping cartons and many other marketing supplies. All this for the purpose of bringing to its shoes basic economies of self-production so that new relationship might be created between quality and its cost.

Fifty million pairs of shoes come from its plants each year. One pair out of every seven produced by the entire industry are International shoes. The equivalent of two pairs for each home in the nation are purchased each year by the consuming public.

Never in industrial history has greater tribute been paid to a principle. Without noise or trumpets, the quality of its products and the conservatism of their price have quietly raised an institution from an humble beginning to the position of the largest shoe manufacturer in the world.

International's part in this progress has been its work to produce better shoes to sell at lower prices. The public's appreciation of value has done the rest.

INTERNATIONAL SHOES are marketed under the five marks of quality which are shown below. Together they comprise more than 1,000 styles of footwear for men, women, children and infants. They are sold by more than 70,000 leading merchants, distributed throughout every state in the Union. Regardless of the brand you select, the style you prefer or the price you pay, International Shoes represent the greatest shoe value you can buy.

FORCED TO ENTER AUTO, THEN ROBBED OF $95

Edward Wolberg Tells Police
One of Holdup Men Flourished a Revolver.

An automobile pulled up beside Edward Wolberg, 6542 Hoffman avenue, at Tamm and Marmaduke avenues, at 9:45 o'clock last night and a man flourishing a pistol jumped out.

"Get in," he told Wolberg, who climbed in beside the driver. After driving three blocks to Ivanhoe avenue, the men robbed Wolberg of $95, pushed him out of the car and drove away.

Two men in an automobile stopped beside a parked car in Tower Grove Park, in which Edward Wolmuenster of Leasburg, Ill., and a woman companion were sitting at 11:45 p. m. One of the men, armed, took $1.50 and a watch from Wolmuenster, then gave back the watch and ordered him to "sit there an hour or we'll get you." Wolmuenster waited and then reported the holdup to police of the Magnolia station. He made his report, a man who refused to give his name, telephoned that he also had been held up in Tower Grove park.

Two men, who ordered a meal at the Plaza restaurant, 1305 Olive street, at 11:40 p. m., held up Frank Mahoney, night manager, and took $27 from the cash register.

COUNTESS BERNADOTTE TAKEN FROM LINER SERIOUSLY ILL

Former Estelle Manville, Coming to Brother's Wedding, Stricken With Appendicitis.

NEW YORK, June 4.—Countess Folke Bernadotte of Sweden, the former Miss Estelle R. Manville of New York, was brought ashore from the Swedish-American Line's Kungsholm, at Quarantine, last night, dangerously ill. She was taken immediately to the Fifth Avenue Hospital, where she was operated upon for acute appendicitis.

The Countess, daughter of Edward Manville, asbestos magnate, and by her marriage to Count Bernadotte a niece of the King of Sweden, was stricken aboard the liner early yesterday.

The marriage of the former Miss Manville to Count Bernadotte was one of the social events of last winter.

On the present journey the Countess came to attend the wedding of her brother and planned only a short stay.

REPUBLIC, MO., CITY MARSHAL FOUND SLAIN

Former Convict Sought for Murder of Officer—Companion Held.

By the Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., June 4.—Harry Young, 22 years old, of Springfield, a former convict, is being sought by officers here in connection with the killing Sunday night of Mark S. Noe, 40, City Marshal of Republic, 16 miles southwest of here.

Olva La Follette, 22, who is thought to have been a companion of Young, was arrested here today and held for investigation.

A warrant charging first-degree murder has been issued against Young.

The last seen of Young was when he visited his room here about midnight Sunday, and left with his belongings, including a large suitcase and a metal tool kit, such as is used by automobile mechanics.

The killing followed an attempt by the Marshal to arrest the two youths for disturbing the peace.

The two were driving a small coupe which Noe entered after stopping the car and taking a .25 caliber automatic pistol and a pint of whisky from La Follette, according to Sheriff Hendrix. A scuffle resulted and one shot was fired while the car was in front of a cafe. Young is said to have driven the car away. Near the home of Dr. E. L. Beal a second scuffle took place, according to La Follette's story, and La Follette says he left the car, after a second shot was fired, and ran down the road.

The officers believe Young shot Noe and threw the body into a ditch south of Brookline.

The crime was not discovered yesterday morning when the body of Noe was found by the side of a little used road, near Republic, by a brother of Sheriff Marcel Hendrix of Greene County. Noe had been shot three times, twice in the head and once in the right arm near the elbow.

A set of blood-stained work clothes and underclothing was found later on the roadside six miles west of Republic. It is believed they belonged to the slayer and were thrown from his automobile as he fled.

Residents of Republic report having seen and heard an argument between two men and Noe about 11 o'clock Sunday night. Later they heard shots and saw a car drive away at great speed.

No one has been found who saw the shooting.

26 PILOTS GET DERBY TICKET ON FAVORITE

Among Britons Who Hold 60 of Numbers That Drew Horses in Calcutta Pool.

Copyright, 1929, by the Press and Pulitzer Publishing Co., the New York World and the Post-Dispatch.

LONDON, June 4.—A number of Britons learned yesterday they have been lucky, when about 60 numbers which drew horses in the famous Calcutta sweepstakes were cabled to this country.

A syndicate of eight London men drew one of the numbers credited to Kopl, favorite in the early betting. Three numbers were drawn against each horse this year, as the first three prizes are to be given in triplicate.

The syndicate includes Tom Hunt, a Hammersmith postman; William Clancy, a Kensington borough council employee; J. Jones, employed by the building firm of F. Richards; J. Brown, bricklayer, and A. Tunbridge, a jobbing painter. Their good fortune was heralded for Miss Doris Lansley, telephone switchboard operator at a London electrical firm. The ticket for Kopl was one which she bought and later sold to her uncle, who in turn resold it to the syndicate.

W. A. Beardmore, an accountant in a big Sheffield steel firm, drew Hunter's Moon. Mr. Jinx, the horse which has displaced Cragador as first favorite in the Derby, was drawn by a syndicate of 25

Swansea sea pilots who are now trying to sell share of their ticket.

Two Indians and a European resident in Calcutta are reported to have drawn Cragador. An Englishman named Weber living in Bombay also drew Kopl and two men in Krugersdorp, South Africa, drew Hunter's Moon.

Lady Ribblesdale, formerly Mrs. John Jacob Astor and widow of the late Lord Ribblesdale, drew Cragador in the Imperial League of the Opera sweep, in which first prize is $15,000. The league was organized by Sir Thomas Beecham to raise a fund for the establishment of a permanent first-class British opera company.

Navy Flyer Killed in Crash

A navy report said the plane fell as a result of a broken wing, the cause of which was not determined.

THREE KILLED, 9 HURT IN BUS-AUTO COLLISION

Two Vehicles Lock Wheels
While on Ohio Highway and Go Into Ditch.

By the Associated Press.

CINCINNATI, O., June 4.—Officials today opened an investigation into the deaths of three persons and the injury of nine others, in the wreck of a bus and an automobile near Batavia last night.

Those killed were Dr. Edward C. Ireton, Marathon, O.; Mrs. Edward C. Ireton and Mrs. Lucy B. Schoyer, Pittsburg, Pa.

The bus, a Cincinnati-Columbus carrier of the Buckeye Stages, Inc., was on the way to Columbus.

It locked wheels with an automobile going in the same direction and both went into the ditch. All of the dead were bus passengers.

The automobile was driven by Edward Curris, son of the Clermont County Coroner, but he had not been found.

The passengers said the bus was not being driven at an excessive speed.

TO FIX RAIL CHARGES DUE TO EASTERN LINES

Special Master Will Determine Amount Owed on Bridge Transfer Levy.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
WASHINGTON, June 4.—A special master, to be appointed by order of the United States Supreme Court, will determine the amount to be paid by railroads west of the Mississippi River to railroads east of the river, following yesterday's decision of the court, upholding the eastern lines in the long controversy. The amount is estimated at $500,000.

The question involved is one as to the division of through freight charges, and does not affect the total freight rate, or the direct interest of shippers.

The Supreme Court, in May, 1928, held that the west side lines must pay the transfer charges on certain classes of westbound through freight crossing the Mississippi at St. Louis. The east side carriers had been paying these charges. The trial court refused to appoint a special master to take testimony and report the amount of the transfer charges which the Eastern lines contended should be refunded to them.

The west side lines asserted the transfer charges had not reached them, but had been paid to the Terminal Association at St. Louis, and insisted that to recover them the east side lines must bring a new suit. The east side lines appealed to the Supreme Court, arguing that the refund was a necessary part of the original proceeding, and that the lower Federal Court should have taken all necessary action to aid them in recovering money they had been unlawfully required to pay. In this appeal the Eastern lines were successful.

U. S. Consul's Daughter to Wed.
By the Associated Press.
AMOY, Fukien, China, June 4.—The American Consul, John Putnam of Hood River, Ore., today announced the engagement of his daughter, Dondia, to Lieutenant-Commander Charles Wheeler of the U. S. N., with the Asiatic fleet. The wedding will be at Amoy June 20.

DRUNKEN DRIVERS MUST GO TO PRISON

Supreme Court Denies Appeal Disposes of Several Other Cases.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
JEFFERSON CITY, June 4.—Division No. 2 of the Missouri Supreme Court today affirmed conviction of two persons on charges of driving automobiles upon public highways when intoxicated. The sentence in each case was two years in the penitentiary.

J. W. Caruthers of Butler County, was convicted March 27, 1928, in Ripley County, where the case was tried on a change of venue. The evidence showed a car driven by Caruthers collided with another automobile on a highway near Poplar Bluff, resulting in the injury of three persons. Chief Justice J. T. White affirmed the conviction. The other defendant is Roy Wester of Shelby County. The Shelby County Sheriff testified he trailed the "zig-zag" driving of Wester for a mile until Wester's car went into a ditch, and then arrested him. The conviction was affirmed by Commissioner Berryman Henwood.

Woman's Conviction Stands.
Commissioner James A. Cooley affirmed the conviction and 10-year sentence of Mrs. Anna Eason, 32 years old, of St. Louis, for fatally stabbing her husband, James R. Eason, also known as James Rowe, Feb. 12, 1927. The Easons resided at 1022A Rutger street. Mrs. Eason stabbed her husband with a butcher knife, according to the evidence, in a quarrel over a threat by Eason to leave home. A confession made by Mrs. Eason to police, which she repudiated at her trial, was sustained as admissible evidence.

The court affirmed the conviction of Emerson Maness of St. Louis, of participating in a hold-up of a poker game in the basement of a residence at 1210 Tower Grove avenue, June 5, 1927, in which two robbers obtained $25. Maness received a five-year prison sentence. Commissioner W. N. Davis wrote the opinion.

Chief Justice White ordered a new trial for Guy Mathis of St. Louis County, who was convicted of felonious assault with intent to kill his wife, Jan. 14, 1928, and sentenced to 10 years in prison. The case was remanded for new trial because of prejudicial errors in an instruction to the jury concerning friendly relations between Mathis and his wife after the alleged assault, and error in the admission of hearsay testimony. Mrs. Mathis was wounded when a revolver in Mathis' hands was discharged, in a saloon Mathis conducted at Prospect Hill, St. Louis County. Both Mathis and his wife testified the shooting was accidental.

Fourth Trial Ordered.
A new trial was ordered for Louis Hayes of Butler County, under 10-year sentence for the murder of Lester Mathis, in an opinion written by Commissioner Davis.

The conviction was reversed because a Deputy Sheriff in charge of the jury permitted the jurors to separate while the case was under consideration and because of prejudicial remarks by the Prosecuting Attorney in his argument to the jury. Hayes shot and killed Mathis Aug. 14, 1925, near Poplar Bluff. The defense contended Mathis had forced his attentions upon Hayes' wife. Hayes was tried three times, the jury failing to agree in the first two trials. The ruling today requires a fourth trial.

Changing a frown to a smile

What a relief!—to find delicious, chocolate Ex-Lax does more good than a nasty-tasting cathartic.

YOU know a chubby little youngster just like the little one pictured here. And you know, too, how the frown darkens and the tears gather when mother prepares one of those nasty cathartic doses that Childhood dreads.

But many parents have found that it isn't necessary to force children to take things that cause them to "make faces". They give safe, chocolate Ex-Lax which the youngsters take with a smile.

A PLEASANT WAY THAT'S BETTER, TOO . . . only delicious-tasting—just like chocolate—but it is better for both children and grown-ups than the harsh, nasty-tasting cathartics it is replacing.

The laxative ingredient of Ex-Lax is a triumph of chemistry. Does not disturb digestion nor cause griping. Is not absorbed by the system. And is not habit-forming. It is safe as well as scientific.

It does not embarrass. Its action is positive, dependable—yet natural.

CHOCOLATED FOR A GOOD REASON . . . There are other possible carriers for the laxative ingredient. But chocolate was chosen for Ex-Lax because it is the ideal medium.

Unpleasant tastes may disturb the stomach. But smooth, delicious chocolate encourages digestion. And chocolate, as employed in Ex-Lax, dissolves completely. Carries all of the laxative into the stomach—in the manner best assuring uniform action and fullest effect.

So Ex-Lax is not just a "candy" laxative. It is chocolate in the special Ex-Lax way, for sound scientific reasons.

WRITE FOR FREE SAMPLE Try Ex-Lax. Let it tell its own story. Your druggist has it in three sizes—10c, 25c and 50c. For free trial box write to Ex-Lax Co., P. O. Box 165, Times Plaza Station, Brooklyn, N. Y., Dept. SLP-7.

HOOPER DAILY RECEIVES CLIPS FROM 35 PAPERS

White House Attaches Prepare
'Yellow Journal,' So Called Because of Color.

The Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, June 4.—President Hoover is keeping a vigilant watch upon the trend of public sentiment on the great questions of government as it is reflected in the press of all sections of the nation.

Late each day there is placed before him his own specially prepared and private newspaper, dubbed "The Yellow Journal," by White House attaches, not for its contents, but because it consists of clippings mounted upon sheets of flow foolscap, loosely bound together with red tape, that forms, literally, so many of Washington's public documents.

Essentially, the President's paper is a compilation of news dispatches and editorial opinion taken from more than 35 daily papers each morning. But even this is not sufficient to meet the desires of the chief executive, and to it have been added the services of two special clipping bureaus.

Studies Clippings.
If his time permits, Mr. Hoover takes a careful study of the clippings before leaving his office, although he sometimes takes them to the White House proper and goes over them there a little later. He prefers, however, to dispose of the "Yellow Journal" before leaving his desk, as there are usually inner guests and it is not always possible to find time for reading in the evening.

President Hoover is most interested at present in the reaction of the press to two of the great domestic problems of the day, tariff revision and farm relief. Numerous journals from the agricultural northwest have been added to the list of papers received at the White House so that the President may have a thorough knowledge of the attitude of the press of the section particularly interested in these two topics.

The papers from which "The Yellow Journal" is compiled are no dailies of the larger cities. The task of going through the smaller papers has been given over to the clipping bureaus. These, incidentally, were chosen with some difficulty, as first inquiries disclosed that only a few such establishments make a practice of clipping editorials.

Started Under Wilson.
The President's own newspaper was established during the Wilson administration. It was the idea of Joseph Tumulty, President Wilson's secretary, and was used by Presidents Harding and Coolidge. At the outset of the Hoover administration its scope was enlarged by increasing the number of papers from which it was compiled and adding the services of the clipping bureaus.

Frequently, marked copies of newspapers are sent to the White House by citizens and are interpreted in some particular project or problem and some times articles from these are added to the columns of the "Yellow Journal."

For more than 10 years the task of preparing "The Yellow Journal" has been entrusted to John McCabe, veteran of the White House clerical force. He finds it a job that occupies his entire time and the part time services of an assistant, who in hand he tackles each morning the huge stack of papers and goes through them, column by column, clipping the articles and editorial that, in his opinion, the President would wish to read.

MILWAUKEE COUNCIL REPEALS CITY'S DRY LAW ORDINANCES

Prepares to Regulate Sale of Soft Drinks Without Enforcing Prohibition.

The Associated Press.
MILWAUKEE, Wis., June 4.—A unanimous action to wipe out of this city's ordinances all prohibition enforcement machinery based on the State's discarded Sevenson act was taken last night by the City Council. The repeal will become effective when signed by Mayor Daniel W. Hoan.

At the same time the Council repealed a new ordinance for licensing and regulating the sale of soft drinks. It is based on the National Prohibition act and the Wisconsin Grobshmidt law, recently made effective, which declares that communities of the State shall license soft drink establishments. The machinery for licensing and regulation is said to be similar to that given by the Sevenson law, but the new law does not provide for arrests and prosecutions for license violations, transportation or possession, by the community.

The Assistant City Attorney stated he thought the police department under the new ordinance would have no power to enforce matters except to see that soft drink establishments were licensed and orderly.

12 U. S. FIRMS SIGN RUSSIAN CONTRACTS

Ford Company Closes Deal for Building 100,000-Car Factory.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, June 4.—Regarded by Soviet authorities as the most forward step in two years toward closer relations between their Government and American business, Soviet contracts with more than 12 American firms have been signed. The details involving millions were announced yesterday.

Chief among the agreements is a nine-year contract with the Ford Motor Co., calling for the purchase of about $20,000,000 worth of Ford cars and parts and the construction in the Soviet Union of an automobile factory to produce annually 100,000 Ford cars and trucks.

The other contracts call for technical assistance, especially American engineering consultation of Soviet projects.

The Ford contract was signed last Friday at Dearborn, Mich. Announcing its details, Valery I. Meshlauk, vice chairman of the Supreme Economic Council of the Soviet Union, said that with the other agreements it constituted one of the greatest Soviet advances with American business and the greatest advance in two years. The contract provides for technical co-operation between the Ford company and the Soviet automobile trust for five years after the completion of the factory at Nizhni-Novgorod on the Volga River, which is expected to be put in operation within four years. Pending completion of the plant the demand for automobiles will be supplied chiefly by imports, and more particularly through the purchase of about $30,000,000 worth of the Ford product for the next four years.

The Soviet Union now possesses only 200,000 cars, Meshlauk said, although he cited as an indication that the situation is improving the fact that this year $150,000,000 has been appropriated for road construction.

Other contracts include those with:

Hugh L. Cooper Co., New York, consulting engineers on a $100,000 hydro-electric power plant in the Ukraine described as the largest in the world.

Stuart, James & Cooke, New York, consulting engineers for building of new coal mines, rebuilding of old ones and installation of modern equipment.

H. J. Freyn Engineering Co., New York, consulting engineers for designing of steel mills to cost more than $10,000,000.

Radio Corporation of America, for exchange of patents and other technical information.

International General Electric Co., for technical assistance and exchange of patents.

Nitrogen Engineering Co., New York, for technical assistance in erecting a nitro fertilizer factory.

Du Pont de Nemours Co., for technical assistance in erecting ammonia fertilizer factories.

Longacre Engineering & Construction Co., New York, technical assistance and supervision over the construction of apartment houses in Moscow.

Arthur Davis, Oakland, Cal., chief consulting engineer on irrigation projects in Soviet Central Asia.

McCormick Co., New York, designing of a large baking plant in Moscow.

Albert Kahn, Inc., Detroit, designing of the Stalingrad Tractor Factory to produce 40,000 tractors annually.

STORM DAMAGE IN ALBERTA
One Death and Property Loss Caused by Deluge in Southern Half

By the Associated Press.
CALGARY, Alberta, June 4.—Southern Alberta today still counted the loss resulting from rain which deluged the sandy foothill lands during the week-end, causing the death of one person and leaving swollen rivers, water-soaked roads and generally disorganized communication.

Debris carried along in the swollen rivers threatened to damage bridges. Basements of houses along river banks were flooded.

FERDINAND EARLE DENIES PROMISE TO WED DANCER

Artist Files Answer to $180,000 Suit Brought by Dolores Salazar.

LOS ANGELES, June 4.—Ferdinand Phinney Earle, internationally known artist, has filed an answer to Dolores Salazar's $180,000 breach of promise suit. He said he is a resident of Paris, France, and therefore not under the jurisdiction of the Los Angeles courts.

Earle, who has gone through similar court actions, denied he promised to marry the dancer or to give her a large sum of money.

Miss Salazar charged Earle took her to France and abandoned her there, and that he wrote her passionate love letters. She filed attachments on Earle's Hollywood property.

President Has No Intention of Seeking to Modify Policy Till Powers Agree on Reduction.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—The American cruiser-building program will be carried forward by President Hoover as laid down by Congress, and provision for new ships will be made in the next Federal budget.

The administration recognizes that work toward construction of 15 additional 10,000-ton fighting ships is made mandatory under the program until an agreement for reduction of sea armaments is reached by the leading nations and ratified by the Senate, and the President has no intention of attempting to modify or abandon that policy.

Contrary interpretations drawn from the President's Memorial day address and the statement issued afterward by Secretary Stimson emphasizing the tremendous economic burden placed upon the Powers by present naval requirements, are described in high administration circles as erroneous.

Agreement Soon Likely.

Although the administration is heartily in favor of a reduction of naval armaments and has moved toward that end by suggesting, through Ambassador Hugh S. Gibson, at the Geneva preparatory disarmament conference, a new basis for evaluating relative naval strength, it regards an actual agreement as unlikely in the near future. Without such an agreement, ratified by the Senate, no modification or abandonment of the American building program can be considered.

As the disarmament situation now stands, the Preparatory Commission is marking time while the principal Powers are studying and undertaking to make practical application to their own navies of the "yardstick" formula presented by Ambassador Gibson.

This formula is that in evaluating relative naval strength there be taken into account, besides tonnage, armament, armor, speed and age, as well as some less important factors. The delegates to the Geneva conference received the proposal with a show of enthusiasm.

Technical Questions Involved.

Officials here say that, since highly technical questions are involved, slow progress is to be expected. First, the naval experts of the other Powers must determine how the "yardstick" can be applied to their own navies, taking into account their individual needs for certain types and classes of ships.

Having made this determination they, like the American experts, must settle upon the ratio in the whole equation that is to be given to tonnage, to armament and to the other factors.

After the experts of the five leading sea Powers have computed their percentage scale, they will report to the preparatory commission which adjourned subject to call.

Reassembling in Switzerland, the experts of the various nations then will be faced with the problem of composing their differences in the effort to reach a common "yardstick" applicable to all the navies.

No Other Formula Suggested.

These computations and agreements are essential to a future disarmament conference, unless some other formula can be worked out in the meantime, and there is no suggestion that any other will be forthcoming until every effort has been made to apply the American plan.

Some naval opinion seems to be that there is little likelihood of a meeting of the great Powers in advance of that provided for in the Washington arms conference treaties, which is in 1931.

CENSUS AND APPORTIONMENT BILL TAKEN UP IN HOUSE

Lozier and Manlove of Missouri Among Those Opposed to Including Aliens in Count.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—The question of allotting its seats among the states to correspond to the changes in population that have taken place since the 1910 census was placed before the House yesterday as it took up the Senate census and reapportionment bill.

Various proposals for changes were made. Advocates of the measure described it as largely similar to the two bills authorizing the census and reapportionment passed separately by the House last year.

The measure provides for a report on the 1934 population count to be made at the opening of the second session of the Seventy-first Congress and for an automatic re-allocation of House seats if action is not taken by Congress.

Representative Rankin of Mississippi, ranking Democrat on the Census Committee, opposed the automatic reapportionment proposal and said he would offer amendments on the floor to eliminate that section of the bill. He proposed changes to exclude aliens from the count upon which a new allotment of seats is based.

Congressmen Lozier and Manlove of Missouri, both Democrats, and Thurston of Iowa, a Republican, also favored the alien amendment.

GERK TALKS AT POLICE CHIEFS' CONVENTION

Helping Children One Phase of Service Described in Address At Atlanta.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

ATLANTA, Ga., June 4.—Joseph
A. Gerck, Chief of Police in St.
Louis, addressed the annual convention of the International Association of Chiefs of Police here today on "Higher Type Police Service."

Phases of the work, he said, are safety talks to children, which tend to destroy the lack of harmony between children and policemen, free employment bureaus to provide work for men who might otherwise become potential criminals, a blood transfusion service intended primarily to care for injured policemen but available for citizens in cases deserving public sympathy, an emergency charity fund, a police training school where probationary patrolmen spend six weeks learning the elements of police duty, and a research bureau for the identification of bullets by the system of forensic ballistics.

Of the safety talks and the police policy of helping children obtain the use of vacant lots for playgrounds Chief Gerck said: "The value of this service is reflected in a decrease of 26 per cent in traffic fatalities affecting children under 16 years old, in the past year."

"Next to one's parents the policeman should be the first person to child should seek in time of doubt or trouble. If the officer doesn't put himself out to help the boy or girl seeking him, he isn't fit to wear the blue uniform and the bureau buttons."

"On the other hand, the persons who frighten their offspring with threats of turning them over to a policeman are not good fathers and mothers. First principles are the tasteful ones and children should be taught from infancy that the police are their friends."

"Suppression of crime still is, of course, a chief fundamental of law-enforcement agencies, but the experts of today, in addition to supplying the ounce of prevention, endeavor to trace crimes committed back to the cause, in order to effect a cure."

"For instance, all police officers know that unemployment increases crime. Thus, anything a police department can do to find jobs for the idle lessens the danger of a crime wave resulting from industrial depression or other causes. The St.
Louis Police Department, therefore, has installed and operates a free employment bureau."

SENATE DISCUSSES REPEAL OF NATIONAL ORIGINS QUOTA

Consideration of Nye Resolution Is Begun, With Indications of Close Vote.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—Consideration of the Nye resolution intended to bring about repeal of the national origins quota basis in the Immigration Act was begun by the Senate yesterday.

The resolution seeks to discharge the Senate Immigration Committee from further consideration of the proposal to repeal this method of determining how many immigrants each country would be entitled to,
and the vote on the Nye proposal will be considered as a test of strength. The committee voted 4 to 2, for indefinite postponement of a resolution intended to repeal the provision and a close vote in the Senate is forecast, with each side claiming victory.

Repeal of the national origins provision is being sought by Senator Nye (Rep.), North Dakota, on the theory that the provision is an unfair and inaccurate method of arriving at the number of immigrants a country is justly entitled to.

BIGGER PIPE LINE CONSIDERED TO HANDLE DUPO FIELD'S OIL

Six-Inch Tube to Woodriver Would Let Operators Get Higher Price.

Unexpected production of the Dupo oil field threatens to exceed the capacity a three-inch pipe line to East St. Louis, 10 miles away, and officers of the Illinois Pipe Line Co. are considering construction of a six-inch line to Woodriver, at an estimated cost of $270, 000, James Loftus, president, said
today.

Production is being marketed at the Lubrite Refinery in East St.
Louis at $1.65 a barrel to the producer. Connection with lines from Texas to New Jersey which cross the Mississippi River at Wood-river would give the operators advantage of a six-inch line to Wood-river, at an estimated cost of $270, 000, James Loftus, president, said
today.

MARRIED MAN SUED OVER NEW TROUSSEAU LINES OF DIVORCEE

NEW YORK, June 4.—Esmund O'Brien, son of former Supreme Court Justice Morgan J. O'Brien and for 12 years married, has been served with a complaint in a suit for $4797 for trousseau lines purchased between last December and April 10, it was disclosed yesterday.

The Irish Linen Shop on Fifth avenue, importer, states that O'Brien and Mrs. Marion Roach, divorcee, visited the shop and made the purchases, O'Brien paying $500 down.

O'Brien, a brother-in-law of Ellen Mackay Berlin, was married in September, 1917, to Miss Mary Weightman of Des Moines, Ia. Mrs. Roach divorced John Roach, wealthy ship builder, two years ago.

THINKS MISSING MAN DROWNED IN QUARRY

Friend of Truck Driver Who Disappeared April 29 Gives Clue.

A solution of the mystery of the disappearance of Bartholomey Casey, 59 years old, of 5347 (rear) Lotus avenue, on April 29, was offered last night when a volunteer told police he thought Casey had backed his automobile truck into the water-filled quarry at Euclid and Ashland avenues, while attempting to unload ashes.

When the disappearance of Casey and his truck was reported a few days after he was last seen, police made a perfunctory investigation. Yesterday when a further search was requested, his description was broadcast over a radio station.

As a result, John Daniels, 5211 Lotus avenue, called at Page Boulevard Police Station and related that he talked to Casey in the alley behind his home at 9 a. m., April 29. Casey had been drinking and asked for a quarter to pay the quarry's dumping fee on a load of ashes. Daniels declined and went on his way.

Two weeks ago an insurance investigator canvassed the neighborhood and Daniels told him he thought Casey had gone to the quarry at night to avoid paying the fee and had fallen in. The investigator told him last week, Daniels said, that a woman living near the quarry said she heard cries for help the night of April 29. Because of the difficulty of searching the quarry, which contains about 75 feet of water, police referred the case today to Director of Public Safety Steininger, who has authority to order the quarry dragged or to employ divers. The investigation was requested by Mrs. Fannie Ayars of 2519 Washington boulevard, who has been caring for Casey's small daughter since his wife died a year ago.

HOUSE VOTES FOR REGISTRATION OF ALIENS IN CENSUSSmoot Opposes G. O. P.
Plan for Three Months'
Recess—Says Tariff Bill
Will Be Ready by Aug 20By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, June 4.—An amendment to have the 1930 census include a register of aliens in the country was accepted in the House today by a vote of 163 to 123.

The House struck from the bill a provision which would cause a census to be taken of radio sets. An amendment by Representative Rankin (Dem.), Mississippi, to fix the date for taking the census in May, 1930, instead of November, 1929, was adopted.

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—The neat plan of Republican leaders in Congress for the month's recess ran into another snag yesterday, when Senator Smoot, Republican chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, announced his opposition to it where the Senate is concerned. Senator Jones of Washington, Republican whip, and Senator Borah had already declared against the plan.

Senator Watson, Republican leader in the Senate, and Speaker Longworth of the House, fathered the program of recessing until about Sept. 10 on the theory that the Senate Finance Committee would require that length of time to rewrite the tariff bill which the House passed last week. However, the committee decided yesterday that it would divide the work among sub-committees, and Smoot declared afterward that the bill would be ready for the Senate not later than Aug. 10, and that there was no excuse for recessing until a later date.

The Senate cannot recess without first fixing a date upon which, following the recess, it will vote on the tariff bill. If unanimous consent is required to fix the date, as some Senators maintain, the case is hopeless, because Borah has declared he is opposed to any recess until the tariff bill has been passed. If a two-thirds vote is required, the chances are still slender, because there is a formidable faction in the Senate which is opposed to a long recess. If Watson can find some formula for setting the date by majority vote he may be able to get sufficient votes.

President Hoover has said that he has no objection to a recess, provided the farm bill is passed first and a date is fixed for a vote on the tariff bill. On the other hand, he is not expected to endorse a recess which would delay action on the tariff bill unnecessarily.

June 12 Fixed as Date of Beginning Open Hearings on Tariff.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—Hoping for final Congressional action on tariff revision about Nov. 1, the Senate Finance Committee has adopted a program designed to complete public hearings by July 10 and have a bill ready for Senate consideration about a month later.

Recognizing the probability of a fight on the Senate floor if an attempt were made to have the hearings conducted in closed session, Republican members of the committee who favored that procedure have agreed that they shall be open to the public. June 12 has been fixed as the date for the beginning of these hearings, and the California Congressional delegation was called by Senator Shortridge, a Republican member of the committee, to get together today on changes they desire to have made in the House Bill.

NEGRO EX-SOLDIER HELD FOR SENDING THREATS BY MAILJoshua Haughton, Who Shot Veterans' Bureau Doctor in 1921, Arrested on U. S. Charge.

Joshua Haughton, 33 years old, Negro war veteran, who in 1921 wounded a Veterans' Bureau physician because of dissatisfaction over his rating as a disabled soldier, was arrested yesterday on a charge of writing a threatening letter to Charles Beck, local director of the Veterans' Bureau.

The letter contained the threat that "blood will be spilled all over the place if I have to come out there." The writer complained that "Beck has kept the Haughton boys from getting their money," and stated, "Beck is going to die, his life is in danger." The communication was unsigned, but Haughton's home address, 3127A La Salle street, was on the envelope. Haughton admitted, police say, that he wrote the letter. He is held for Federal authorities on a charge of sending threats through the mail.

Jan. 21, 1921, Haughton shot Dr. Joseph Elvel in the right arm following an argument at the Veterans' Bureau, 4030 Chouteau avenue. He served a six-month Workhouse sentence on an assault charge as a result of the shooting. Shortly after his release, he returned to the bureau and created a disturbance. He was arrested again and fined $250 in Police Court.

these cars so far in the forefront that the selection of Cadillac or LaSalle becomes only a matter of the elimination of cars not so equipped.

The Syncro-Mesh Silent-Shift Transmission has won enthusiastic, nationwide approval—for the very excellent reason that it eliminates one of the most annoying phases of driving.

With this new transmission gear-shifting becomes almost an unconscious act. There is never any clashing—no noise. With your finger-tips you make just one gentle movement from gear to gear with the lever. You can shift from high back to second as readily as from second to high—at any speed—a feature you will especially appreciate on steep hills.

Experts are finding it a revelation; it is indispensable to the inexperienced; and women in particular acclaim it a welcome boon from the old method of "tugging" and "timing" to keep from clashing the gears. This transmission is exclusively Cadillac's and it is protected by basic patents.

The Cadillac-LaSalle Duplex-Mechanical Four-Wheel Brakes (also exclusive because of basic patents) are of inestimable value in any traffic emergency. No other car has brakes so powerful, so positive in action, or that operate with so little pedal pressure. The lightest touch of the toe on the brake pedal gives

La Salle is just as easy to purchase as many cars of far less value and far less prestige. And it is far more economical to operate. It is priced from $2295 to $2875. Cadillac $3295 to $3995. instantaneous, velvet-like deceleration. Increased pressure enables you to stop your car in the shortest possible space. Also, a thorough examination would reveal that when the brake pedal is released there is never any tendency to drag—the cause of much needless friction and wear in cars not so equipped.

The protection afforded by Security Plate Glass, with which all Cadillac-LaSalle windows, doors and windshields are equipped, is of too great importance to be lightly brushed aside. This glass remains intact if broken through impact or collision. It will not fly into fragments. It is Cadillac's conscientious conviction that every motorist is entitled to this protection in these days of high speed and congested streets and highways.

These three safety factors are standard equipment in every Cadillac and LaSalle and are offered at no extra charge.

DR. M'BRIDE ASSAILS HEARST PRIZE PLAN

Asks When Publisher Became Interested in Enforcement of Prohibition.

By the Associated Press.

PITTSBURG, Pa., June 4.—The Rev. Dr. F. Scott McBride, general superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, speaking at the United Presbyterian general assembly yesterday assailed the "wet press." He also attacked the Hearst prize plan for a substitute to prohibition.

"Since when did William Randolph Hearst become interested in a plan to enforce prohibition?" McBride asked. "And from where did the $25,000 prize money emanate? The so-called Hearst plan is nothing more than a liquor selling plan."

"The church is not ready for any plan that may be offered, from any source, as a substitute for prohibition."

Speaking of what he termed the "wet press" and prohibition, Dr. McBride said "if they had thought of the idea themselves, it would be hailed as the greatest thing on the face of the earth. But in their eyes, things that spring up from other sources are things to be condemned. If the press would catch up to the church in its thought on the matter, there would be no prohibition problem to solve."

The assembly went on record as "showing its strong disapproval of the boldness of the tobacco interests in advertising their wares over the radio, in newspapers, magazines and on billboards." It was voted to protest to the radio companies.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—The Senators defeated the Browns this afternoon and evened the series two games to two. It was the Browns second defeat on their eastern invasion against two victories.

The score was 8 to 7.

The Browns depart this evening for Philadelphia, which is but three hours away. Tomorrow, an important four-game series with the league leaders starts, and Alvin Crowder will have the first game pitching assignment. Daylight saving prevails in Philadelphia, so the games will start at 1 p. m., St. Louis time.

FAIRMOUNT SCRATCHES.
First race—Perjury, Nita, Suna, Sec. Perfect track, and climate conditions greeted race goers at Fairmount. The attendance was considerably better than yesterday perhaps 3000 being on hand when the first race was run.

The first race on the card went to Justin, from the March Bank Stable. She opened up a lead on her half in the first quarter and, withstanding all challenges, drew away in the stretch to win by several lengths as if much the best. Princess Margaret was second and Princess Isabel was third.

There was little to the race behind the winner, which had much all day, and the struggle for second and third places resulted in decisive margins as well.

The winner's price was $10.06 for $2.

The Squire Wins Second.
After being backed confidently, the Squire made good easily in the second. He soon went to the front in the race and merely coasted the rest of the distance to win well in hand. He opened up a long lead and when challenged in the stretch came again to get the verdict over Jessie Carey and Arch Queen. The latter, a good looker, ran a fair race and closed gamely to be third.

BOTTOMLEY'S HOME RUN WINS FIRST FOR CARDS

By J. Roy Stockton

Of the Post-Dispatch Sports Staff.

SPORTSMAN'S PARK, June 4.—Jim Bottomley's home run with Douthitt on base in the seventh inning gave the Cardinals a 3-1 victory in the first game of their double-header with Brooklyn this afternoon. It was the seventh consecutive triumph for Southworth's men.

Jess Haines and William Watson Clark had quite a pitching duel. Johnny Frederick kept the Robins in their only score in the opening inning when, first up, he hit a home run. This was his sixteenth straight safe-hitting game.

Bottomley also tallied the Red Birds' first run in the second when he walked, stole second and got home on Roettger's single.

(Play-by-play account and box score on page 18).

CARDS TO ADMIT BOYS AND GIRLS FREE ON JIM BOTTOMLEY'S 'DAY'

Next Saturday will be "Bottomley Day" at Sportsman's Park and, according to an announcement by the management, all boys and girls between the ages of 12 and 10 will be admitted free.

Bottomley will receive the $1000 prize as "most valuable player" in the National League in 1929.

Fairmount Fall Meeting Assured; Dates Not Set

R. Jockey Club would not hold its annual fall meeting, in accordance with the management, all boys and girls between the ages of 12 and 10 will be admitted free.

"We certainly intend to hold our fall meeting this year, although the dates have not been set. The matter later will take up that matter and an announcement will then be made. It is probable that the meeting will be held in October instead of September," Mr. Head told a Post-Dispatch representative.

SHAW SCHOOL PITCHER HURLS NO-HIT GAME IN ELIMINATION CONTEST

FRANK ITALIANO SHUTS OUT BRYAN HILL IN 7 INNINGS; BENTON LOSES TO WEBSTER

Little Frankie Italiano, hurling for the Shaw School, pitched a no-hit, no-run game against the Bryan Hill team yesterday in a first round game of the elimination series to decide the Public School baseball champion.

Four men reached first against Italiano, three on walks and one on an error. Italiano struck out 14 batters. The final score was 3 to 0 in favor of Shaw.

Arthur Metheny, Bryan Hill pitcher, also hurled creditable ball, giving up seven hits and striking out 13 men. The contest was played at Forest Park.

Benton school lost its chance to gain permanent possession of the Post-Dispatch trophy when it was defeated by Webster.

Lester Miller, Webster pitcher, struck out 13 men and marked up a ninth straight victory of the team. Italiano DeCamp, Benton pitcher, was touched for 15 hits. Shaw School won an interesting game from Mason, 7 to 6. Edward Schleich, Blow, and Eugene Schleich, Mason, each allowed but six runs.

Adams school, winner of the 25 title, passed its first round successfully by defeating Long, 7 to 2. Litty, Adams, allowed but two safeties, while his mates reached Lombard for 10.

A. E. Kindervater, director of athletics, today announced the schedule for tomorrow's semi-final game. Blow will oppose Webster. Forest Park grounds No. 3, and Adams will meet Shaw on Forest Park grounds No. 10. Both games will start at 4 o'clock.

HOW TO HIT HARD

As Told to a Special Representative by Jack Dempsey of the Post-Dispatch.

Just Before Raising "Two Guns"

Jack Dempsey, in his prime, just before switching into his "face-on" fighting front in which he weaved into smashing attacks on his opponent, firing hard punches from all angles when "in close," with both hands.

Body Power, Achieved by 'Going In' With Punches, Is What Puts Opponents on the Canvas, Ex-Champion Says.

CHAPTER I

(Copyright, 1929.)

BOXING is called the scientific part of pugilism. "Socking" may be called the artistic. For it takes an artist to so punch the chin or body of a foe as to knock him down—and stays there.

It has been said that boxers can be made, but that sluggers must be born that way. I disagree with the latter theory. It's my idea that the average man can be taught to hit with knockout force.

But, of course, the job isn't easy. The first thing to be divided into two classes: (1) Men who have knockout power, but won't run the risk of trying for knockouts, and (2) men who go wading in and who will trade punches, but get nowhere on a knockout career because they do not know the trick of getting body power into their smashes.

The former group belongs to what might be called the "safety" class. These fellows realize that to score a knockout it is necessary to wade in and slug and run the danger of being knocked out themselves. Rather than risk being bounced to sleep, they play it safe, fight at long range and so their knockout total is small indeed.

The other boys—those willing workers who try for kayos and pay no heed to what danger they run—are not scoring knockouts with any regularity because they hit with ARM POWER and not with BODY POWER. You can't flatten anybody by jolting him only with the force you can generate in the arm.

Fighting Heart Needed.

No one can teach a man who isn't daring to be daring; no one can influence a conservative and careful fighter to take wild chances. It isn't his makeup, to begin with, and nothing can change a fighter's nature.

But the boy who is gifted with a fighting heart and who won't take a backward step, the boy who is plunging in and crowding his opponent all the time, can—with a few pointers in the art of BODY PUNCHING—be converted quickly into a knockout specialist.

The ring game of today is pretty well crowded with what are called "light hitters." The idea prevails that they are light hitters because they haven't the strength and power of the renowned sluggers. My conclusion is that 90 per cent of the "light hitters" are that way because they won't GO IN with their punches. They are so fearful of being cracked on the chin with the fist if any real damage is to be done.

Leonard Learned Trick.

DEALING in generalities is always a difficult way of stressing a point. So I'll tag Benny Leonard as an example of how a "light hitter" can, by abandoning run-away tactics and adopting the wading-in style, become a world renowned slugger.

In his pre-championship days, Leonard depended upon speed, brains and defensive cleverness to win his fights. He was so light a hitter—scoring so few knockouts—against dubs—that he became known as "The Powder Puff Kid."

When Leonard became lightweight king his ambition was to take rank among the greatest. He knew that merely dusting off opponents' noses wouldn't get him a place in the Hall of Fame. To be a knockout specialist—that was the thing. So he learned the trick of GOING IN with his punches, he waded into his opponents—and the rest is history.

The one-time "Powder Puff Kid" became one of the greatest sluggers in all lightweight history. What Leonard did, others can do. Those who do not know the trick of driving in with the body back of each smash can learn it quickly! After that, if they will follow the examples of Fitzsimmons, Ketchel, Leonard, McGovern and the others and take the OFFENSIVE in every battle, they cannot fail to achieve knockouts.

Of course, when they do it, they risk getting flattened themselves. But Fitz, Ketchel, Leonard and McGovern took the risk—and became immortals. They are remembered where 10,000 others, who had perhaps greater skill, but not so much reckless daring, have been forgotten.

COAST ATHLETES MAY BE BANNED IN TITLE GAMES

By Alan J. Gould, Associated Press Sports Editor.

NEW YORK, June 4.—"Welcome" may not be on the Eastern doormat for many more seasons so far as the visits of Far Western teams to the intercollegiate track and field championships are concerned.

Stanford's third consecutive and overwhelming victory at Philadelphia, running up the Far Western score to eight triumphs in the last nine years, has revived discussion about confining the I. C. A. A. A. championships to the Eastern fold instead of upsets the coast teams to the intercollegiate track and field championships are concerned.

The subject already has been considered although no official action has been taken as yet proposed. No particular feeling has arisen to upset the dual relations between the Eastern and Far Western schools but it is nevertheless argued that repeated victories by the California stars have taken the edge off the title meet for Eastern colleges.

The situation, in other words, has been reached where the Eastern efforts have virtually abandoned efforts to win team honors in preference to priming a few stars for individual championships.

Thus, last Saturday, Phil Edwards, New York University's great middle distance star, concentrated on his record-breaking half-mile, although he stood a good chance of scoring well up in the "400" or mile. John Anderson of Cornell stayed out of the spotlight, a private Stanford party, to concentrate on the discus.

Jimmy Reid, Harvard captain, preferred to break the two-mile record rather than divide his talents between that event and the mile.

Reasons for Advantage.

"Why do the coast teams excel their Eastern rivals so decisively in team strength?" the bystanders ask. For several reasons, but primarily these:

1. Climatic advantages give the Pacific Coast schools a longer competitive season; they are rounding into shape outdoors in April when the Eastern talent is just beginning to work on the frost-bitten ground.

2. There being fewer "big" colleges on the Pacific Coast, the talent is better concentrated for team purposes by contrast with the scramble among large Eastern colleges for the schoolboy material.

3. The two California colleges now strongest in track and field—Stanford and Southern California—have no need to absorb or compete for good material within their ranks.

4. Track and field sports are a bigger "gate" attraction in the Far West than the East, thereby furnishing greater stimulus.

Babe Hunt Fights Draw.

Do you remember the old, filthy shop where the man in the window rolled the leaves with dirty fingers... and spit on the ends? What a far cry this is from the modern, certified "Creme" method of manufacture!

ELEN WILLS' SINGLES VICTORY ONLY TRIUMPH FOR AMERICANS

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, June 4.—France's great tennis players dominated the French hard court championships which ended here yesterday.

Of the five titles at stake, France won two outright and shared another with England. Helene Wills captured the women's singles for the second year in succession to give the United States its only title. The women's doubles went jointly to Spain and Holland in the persons of Elia de Alvarez and Kera Bouman.

Rene Lacoste, one of the four great French Davis Cup stars, was the outstanding figure among the men as Miss Wills was among the women. After taking the doubles title with Jean Borotra, Lacoste defeated Borotra in a hard-fought five set final yesterday.

Henri Cochet, who won the singles crown last year, had to be satisfied this time with the mixed doubles title which he and Eileen Bennett of England captured for the second consecutive year.

Lacoste defeated Borotra in a thrilling five set match by scores of 6-3, 2-6, 6-0, 2-6, 6-2. Lacoste now has won in 1925, 1927 and 1929, while in 1926 and 1928 the title went to Henri Cochet, third member of the tri-color's great triumvirate.

On the way to the final the three moneymen decisively asserted their supremacy by beating the combined attack of a big international field headed by Bill Tilden, the only foreign player to get as far as the semifinals.

Going on to battle out with his compatriots, Lacoste, who had personally accounted for the scalp of 18 old foes, Tilden, finally conquered the revived Borotra after the measure of the defending champion Cochet, by dint of some of the finest tennis he has shown since 1924.

Hawke's Gold To Meet Fast Field Tonight

Howe's Gold, winner of both the spring and fall Derby events at the Madison track last year and holder of the track record of 48 flat for the Derby distance of 7-16 mile, is among several sprinters in a futuristic race, the eighth event on tonight's grayhound racing program at the East Side oval.

In a dash over the five-sixteenths course last Saturday night, Hawke's Gold showed his heels to a strong field which included Jimmy Jameson, a favorite, who will again be pitted against the Derby winner tonight.

Other features on tonight's card are the fifth and the tenth events. The fifth race, to be contested over a distance of five-sixteenths, will see Actor Boy, the P. W. Wolfe's Kennel's speedy white pound, competing with F. W. Wolken's Hard-As-Starboard, Count de Bernard's Shackleton and Jimmie McQuillan of the Orford Kennel.

Swift and Sure, a speedy red fawn belonging to the R. F. Wallace kennel, and Lost Salvator, a pair who share the track record for the present meeting in both the quarter-mile and the half-mile, are entered along with Hazard II, a fawn daughter of Gold Harp-Trap-pings, in the tenth race, a futuristic sprint. Copa de Ora and The Villain are other entries in this event.

Four new pups will make their debut in the first race, three-sixteenths of a mile. The newcomers are Arizona Queen, Kingsbury Jock, Buck Raby and Master Baldydogan. All the youngsters have shown good form in schooling races, especially Arizona Queen, who promises to give Santa Fe and Andy a battle for the decision.

TEXAS U. NET COACH DEVELOPS MANY STARS

By the Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Tex., June 4.—So long as Dr. D. A. Penick is Texas University's tennis coach, the Southwest conference title probably will go to Longhorn netters.

Whoever has formed that beating Penick-coached teams isn't done. The Longhorn team, headed by the brilliant Berkeley Bell, national player, has completed a victorious campaign of 12 dual meets in this series. The Steers dropped only two matches, both in doubles.

Drake, Tulane and Oklahoma were among defeated non-conference teams.

Besides Bell, the Texas team includes Bruce Barnes, Hugh Dunlap, Lillian Lacoste and Louis Ferguson, each a star in his own right.

Penick's success as a tennis coach is best shown by the number of his pupils who have attained national recognition. Among these are Wilmer Allison of this year's Davis Cup team, and Lewis White and Louis Thalheimer, one-time holders of the national collegiate doubles titles.

VASHON SCHOOL LEADS NEGRO HIGH-Y LEAGUE

The Vashon High School baseball team strengthened their hold on first place when they defeated the Ellsworth Y. M. C. A. team 5 to 7. The Y. M. C. MAROONS HAVE CHANCE TO QUIT BIG 10 LEAGUE

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, June 4.—Michigan has the Big Ten baseball championship safely won, but the battle for last place has yet to be decided.

Minnesota kept Chicago in the pit yesterday by dividing a double header with the Maroons, winning the first game, 4 to 2, and dropping the second, 15 to 10. Howland, Minnesota's pitcher, won the game on the conference slate. A defeat would give Minnesota a record of three games won and seven defeats, while Chicago has won four out of 12 contests.

Leonard Learned Trick.

DEALING in generalities is always a difficult way of stressing a point. So I'll tag Benny Leonard as an example of how a "light hitter" can, by abandoning run-away tactics and adopting the wading-in style, become a world renowned slugger.

In his pre-championship days, Leonard depended upon speed, brains and defensive cleverness to win his fights. He was so light a hitter—scoring so few knockouts—against dubs—that he became known as "The Powder Puff Kid."

When Leonard became lightweight king his ambition was to take rank among the greatest. He knew that merely dusting off opponents' noses wouldn't get him a place in the Hall of Fame. To be a knockout specialist—that was the thing. So he learned the trick of GOING IN with his punches, he waded into his opponents—and the rest is history.

The one-time "Powder Puff Kid" became one of the greatest sluggers in all lightweight history. What Leonard did, others can do. Those who do not know the trick of driving in with the body back of each smash can learn it quickly! After that, if they will follow the examples of Fitzsimmons, Ketchel, Leonard, McGovern and the others and take the OFFENSIVE in every battle, they cannot fail to achieve knockouts.

Of course, when they do it, they risk getting flattened themselves. But Fitz, Ketchel, Leonard and McGovern took the risk—and became immortals. They are remembered where 10,000 others, who had perhaps greater skill, but not so much reckless daring, have been forgotten.

GORILLA JONES KAYOES MELLO IN SIXTH ROUND

BOSTON, June 4.—Gorilla Jones, sensational Negro welterweight, technically knocked out Al Mello of Lowell in the sixth round of a 10-round bout last night. Mello fought valiantly but the Negro's terrific right-handed punches carried too much steam for him. Jones floored him for nine in the fourth and dropped him again in the sixth with a barrage of right and left hooks to the head. Mello's manager stopped the fray at this point to "save him from further punishment."

CRAGADOUR RULES 6 TO 1 FAVORITE FOR ENGLISH DERBY, TOMORROW

TWO AMERICAN ENTRANTS HELD AS OUTSIDERS; 31 WILL START

By the Associated Press.
EPSON DOWNS, Eng., June 4.—The Epson Derby, ancient classic of the English turf, rules all Britons tomorrow.
 Thirty-one of England's choicest 2-year-olds have been selected to battle for the honor and glory awarded the winner of the world's most celebrated horse race. Five million people have wagered hundreds of thousands of pounds in the gigantic London Stock Exchange and other similar pools throughout the United Kingdom. The Calcutta and Stock Exchange sweeps alone involve about $5,000,000 each, holders of tickets on the winning horse to receive in the neighborhood of $25,000.

From city, farm and hamlet the multitude began pouring into this quaint little English village today. For in England everyone goes to the derby. It is a national pilgrimage in which all classes participate, from King to coterminous, from landed lord to wandering kysse. Londoners turned their backs on their shops and offices and joined the early arrivals by train, tram, omnibus, automobile, taxicab, carriage, cart, bicycle and on foot.

Can Accommodate 300,000.
 The influx of England's populace is expected to exceed the quarter-million mark this year. The huge grandstand built in the bowl like setting of the downs course and adjacent standing room furnishes some kind of an accommodation for nearly 300,000 people.

Across the rolling, grassy, wind-blown downs, above Epson, one famous derby course stretches out a long mile and a half—first uphill, then down again. It provides for the proud and youthful blue-blooded racers a most strenuous test of stamina.
 The derby track lies in the shape of an elongated horseshoe. The start is made at the shank of the shoe farthest from the grandstand—nearly 800 yards from the structure. The finish is in front of the royal box where King George will be missing for the first time in recent years.

The first long half-mile of the course is run uphill while the second four furlongs sweep in a sharp descent along an approximate level, going in the final third of the course, the derby candidates turn "Battenham Corner" and swing into the down hill home-ward dash.

Reaching the last phase of the exhausting struggle, many colts are too far gone to make use of the easy descent. But horses with staying power come thundering down the stretch to set the crowd wild with a whirlwind finish.
 Condition of the track, which has become hard because of lack of rain, may further cut the field before post time. Because he did not desire to risk injuring his horse, Lord Devar scratched Macab yesterday while Lord Wolveston's Walter Gay and the Duke of Portland's Leonard are considered doubtful starters.

Cragadour Still Favorite.
 Betting today failed to dislodge "Account Astor's Cragadour" from his position of the favorite although Lord Derby's Hunter's Moon and Major McCalmont's Mr. Links were strongly played. Future betting quotations have made Cragadour the popular choice at 1 to 1 with Hunter's Moon at 7 to 1 and Mr. Links at 17 to 2. Lord Derby's entry lost some of his popularity last week when he pulled up after a workout with the ahins.
 Hopes of American victory lie in P. D. Q., owned by Gordon Selig, the man who successfully introduced American department store merchandise in England, and A. K. Macomber's The Cavalier. P. D. Q. is quoted at 40 to 1 in the future books while Macomber's racer is one of the link outsiders in the speculation. Four times the derby has been won by Americans—Pierrot, Lord's Jroquois in 1881; the late P. C. Whitney's Volodyovski in 1901; the late Richard Croker's Ruby in 1907; and the late H. B. Brown's Durbare II, a 20 to 1 shot, in 1914.
 The derby was first run in 1800 under the guidance of the Earl of Derby but it was not until 1870 that Lord Derby furnished a tinner.

STATE SUPREME COURT REJECTS TECHNICAL PLEA

Refuses Reversal Because Complaint Fails to State That Bank Involved Is Incorporated.

SUBSTANCE, NOT FORM, IMPORTANT

Opinion Brushes Aside Point Having No Bearing on Guilt or Innocence of the Accused.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, June 4.—
Conflicts in Missouri court decisions over a technical requirement that information or indictments in certain criminal cases must state whether the owner of the property affected by the crime is a corporation, were eliminated today by the Missouri Supreme Court, by a ruling that absence of such a statement did not invalidate an information or indictment.

Chief Justice J. T. White, who wrote the opinion in Division No.
2 of the court, said such a technicality grew out of rulings "made when technical errors, having nothing to do with the guilt or innocence of the accused, were generally held to be sufficient to authorize a reversal." He held the tendency now was "to look at the substances of the accusation and not its form."

The opinion set aside an order of the Howard County Circuit Court for a new trial for H. V.
Carson, who had been convicted of selling mortgage, property and fined $100, and directed the lower court to reinstate the verdict and fine. The other Judges of Division No. 2 concurred in the ruling.
Judge R. F. Walker concurring in a separate opinion.

One Word Basis of Appeal.
Carson was convicted of selling some cattle which were under a chattel mortgage given the Citizens Bank of New Franklin, without consent of the bank, and without telling the purchaser the stock was mortgaged. The trial court sustained a defense motion for new trial, on the ground the information filed against Carson failed to state the bank was incorporated.

The prosecution appealed from the ruling, as it is authorized to do when the trial court makes certain adverse rulings, such as sustaining demurrers against informations or indictments. The prosecution cannot appeal from a final judgment in trial of a criminal case in Missouri, that right being reserved to the defendant. Judge White overruled a defense claim that the State was not entitled to appeal from the lower court's ruling on the alleged defect in the information.

Precedents Confict.
Judge White pointed out that there were conflicts in the rulings both of courts in Missouri and in other states, on the necessity of including an allegation that the owner of property affected was a corporation and capable of owning property, where such a concern was named in an information or indictment. He said an early line of Missouri decisions had held it was necessary, but that conflicting views were expressed in later cases.

He ruled that such an omission from the charge could not prejudice the rights of the defendant, and that inclusion of the statement was not essential. He said the explanation for the former rule was that the defendant was entitled to know whether the State intended to prove ownership in a firm of individuals or in a corporation, to enable him to prepare his defense, and to plead, in his acquittal or conviction if again indicted for the same offense.

Rule and Reason.
"If we are not bogged by technical rules which mean nothing, we can see that no probable prejudice to defendants case was caused by the failure to allege that the bank was incorporated," Judge White said. "When the reason for a rule of law falls the rule falls. If there was ever a reason for holding the fact of incorporation of the property owner should be alleged cases like this, such reason is want in this instance."

"It must be remembered that we rulings upon which the defend-ent rules were made when technical errors, having nothing to do with the guilt or innocence of the accused, were generally held to be sufficient to authorize a reversal.
We were in accordance with this bit of mind which the older actioners had acquired. On long familiarity with the tendency to protect one charged with a crime the enjoyment of every right and privilege which could be considered in his favor, regardless of whether it affected his guilt or innocence."

Prefers Substance to Form.
The tendency now is to look at substance of the accusation and not its form.

JEFFERSON CITY, June 4.—Conflicts in Missouri court decisions over a technical requirement that information or indictments in certain criminal cases must state whether the owner of the property affected by the crime is a corporation, were eliminated today by the Missouri Supreme Court, by a ruling that absence of such a statement did not invalidate an information or indictment.

Chief Justice J. T. He held the tendency now was "to refuse to sign an indictment on the accusation and not its form."

The opinion set aside an order of the Howard County Circuit Court for a new trial for H. V. Carson, who had been convicted of selling mortgaged property and shed $100, and directed the lower court to reinstate the verdict and fine. The other Judges of Division No. 2 concurred in the ruling, Judge R. F. Walker concurring in a separate opinion.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York World.
LONDON, June 4.—If the way in which a country is run annoys and disgusts one's sense of justice and humanity, it seems to me there remains but one of two things to do—to strive to attain some position wherein one can better things or to leave the country, and the latter is the easier way. We live in England today under what is called the capitalist system, which after 150 years of existence in its present form has succeeded in producing 2,500,000 of prosperous people and 40,000,000 of persons who live more or less in a state of economic insecurity. On the question of basic principles, the upholders of this system are sharply divided. One half believes in free and unfettered private enterprise, the other in some form of protection against foreign competition. They both suffer from the fact that the foreign worker very often labors more hours a day than his English brother, yet both refuse to sign an international agreement which binds 52 countries to an equal number of working hours.

One half believes that the monetary policy of 1844 is satisfactory for the present time, the other that it could do with alteration. One half believes in the survival of the fittest, the other in the duty of the more fortunate to their unluckier fellowmen.

Against Capitalist System.
Taking these and other sharp divergences of opinion into account, we are then expected to believe that the capitalist system is perfect, and any alteration is bound to be accompanied by economic disaster. I am afraid I have very little respect for a system whose supporters are so divided in their conception of the way it should work, and whose results have been a decaying industry, a stagnating agriculture, a sacrifice of production and consumption to speculation, and the inculcation of snobbery and materialism to a people starved of proper education and enveloped in prejudice and proscribed-mindedness.

To those who wish to alter these things there is but one party open to them; but one party whose face is set definitely against the capitalist system, and that is the party to which I have the honor to belong. I see no hope for a world in which the land, the capital and the power rest entirely in the hands of a few who can do whatever they like with them. I see no Christianity in the use of knowledge for the retention of power over the masses. I see no sense in leaving productive land derelict because to develop it would be an interference with "the rights of property."

Unscared by Russia.
When we are told that the advent of Socialism will mean the collapse of economic life we are apt to be disturbed, and I am unfortunately in so many members of the Labor party reasserts itself and makes us hesitate. But it is true nevertheless. Socialism will mean the collapse of the capitalist system, and life—that is, the sort of life we lead today. It means the collapse of the power of money and the beginnings of real social justice.

"Socialism will not work," cries the enemy. He is right. It will not work in a capitalist country; but we never intended that it should. Socialism in a capitalist country is as impossible as capitalism in a Socialist state. We must remember this.

"Look at Russia," cries the enemy. He is confused in his terms. There was never Socialism in Russia. There was Communism and there was gradualism, and a good deal too much of the latter. "Socialists are humbugs," cries the enemy. "they use motor cars." And why not? Is it because motor cars are produced by the capitalist system? Very well. Therefore no capitalist supporter must buy a stamp in the postoffice or listen to the wireless.

Impossibilities of the Past.
"You cannot change human nature," cries the enemy. Ignorant creature, the enemy. He is going to war with America over the sinking of the "Im Alone." Yet 50 years ago human nature could have made a good enough excuse for such an adventure. Does he support bear-baiting, cock fighting, the pillory, public executions, drawing and quartering, press gangs, votes only for the propertied class? Ignorant creature, the enemy.

"You will destroy Initiative,"

FATHER AND SON

cries the enemy. What initiative? Initiative to make as much money as he likes in order to obtain power? Yes, we will destroy that. Well? Initiative to work, to create? No, he did not mean that sort. We hit his trouble the first time. "It is impossible," cries the enemy. It was impossible that a train could take the place of the mail coach, and the posting chaise; it was impossible for a boat to move under the sea; it was impossible for a machine heavier than air to fly in the sky; it was impossible to send a message to the other end of the world under two months.

Nothing is impossible except the possibility of selling a country's soul to mammon and getting nothing in return, and that is what this system has done. To sit down calmly and accept booms and slumps in trade, great hordes of unemployed and a monetary system that is dependent upon the amount of some rare metal and then call it a sensible system is beyond my comprehension or my patience.

Views Nation as a Family.
To realize how fatuous it is, one has only to imagine the state as a family and ask oneself how long such a condition of things would be tolerated in the home. And the proper conception of the state should be the same as that of the family. Would a large family tolerate the cornering of food, money and clothes, for instance, by one member? Would they say nothing if the wages they brought home were used to buy pearls for the eldest sister whilst the rest went without food? Would they acquiesce to an arrangement whereby one of the brothers should have a whole room to himself whilst the other brothers slept two in a single bed, three in a double one and one on the floor? Would they agree to reverse with an especial reverence one of the brothers because he was named Marmaduke and happened to look more of an imbecile than the others? Yet the people are content to look with admiration and reverence on those that are called Duke or Earl or Lord.

These are some of the many reasons that have urged me to fight an election again, in spite of the lack of support one often encounters amongst one's own "supporters," and the five years of being tied to a constituency whilst it is being nursed, and so often wondering where the ideal is worth it. But we know the ideal is worth it, and fight and we have faith in that ideal. Inasmuch as we are more fortunate than our opponents.

A committee to direct the formation of a civic bureau within the Chamber of Commerce was appointed at a chamber meeting at the Coronado Hotel last night. It was considered to be needed to work for the numerous projects of municipal development discussed at the recent series of civic needs luncheons arranged by the chamber.

Among the first subjects for the bureau to take up is a proposal to check the westward movement of business downtown, river front improvement, removal of tolls on the vehicle deck of Eads Bridge and various public works.

Charles E. Williams, a shoe dealer and a leader of the Associated Retailers, was chosen chairman of the committee, members of which are: Morton J. May, Harland Bartholomew, J. H. Caldwell, Clarence Dely, F. B. Chamberlain, C. S. Abell, Sidney R. Baer, Arthur Holt, Albert T. Perkins, Ralph Weil and Charles Helms.

Further aeronautical development, closer contact with agriculture, additional traffic facilities and general civic development were things vital to the community's future which demand attention, Walter W. Weisenburger, president of the chamber, said in addressing the meeting. While the chamber was ready to offer leadership, the consummation of these objects required the support of the whole city.

Harland Bartholomew, engineer of the City Planning Commission, spoke of the desirability of organized support of the work of the commission. The site and general character of the city are conducive to making it a "really attractive" place, he declared. His words were reminiscent of those of Laclede, who, in founding St. Louis in 1764, said: "It will become one of the finest cities of America on the river."

"We have a very good spot here," Bartholomew continued, "and we need only to get organized to have a sound and substantial growth. An organization like the City Planning Commission cannot go on forever making plans and carrying them out. St. Louis today isn't fully organized for municipal accomplishment. We're in an age of municipal achievement. If we don't do things now, we're going to be out of step a few years hence."

Sidney R. Baer, a department store merchant, spoke in favor of removing vehicle tolls on Eads Bridge, saying this would stabilize downtown property values. A city's progress, he asserted, often was measured by the cosmopolitan atmosphere of its business district.

Chairman Williams maintained that the new bureau would be a powerful factor in revitalizing the downtown area, and argued for improved facilities for traffic to reach this section, to help prevent stagnation.

Local government by the system of counties and cities has been handed down for centuries, but recent developments of modern life are demanding new methods for the administration of metropolitan communities, it was pointed out yesterday by Prof. Thomas H. Reed in beginning the protracted task of planning metropolitan expansion for St. Louis.

Reed, an expert in this work, whose scheme for combining 122 separate political units in Allegheny County, Pa., into a federation, as the city of Pittsburgh is expected to be consummated this month, addressed a luncheon at Hotel Statler of the Chambers of Commerce of St. Louis and St. Louis County, which had employed him to draft a plan for this community as a greater St. Louis. He is professor of political science at the University of Michigan.

The meeting marked the beginning of the first effort to solve the problems of municipal growth in which the county and the city have met on friendly terms of co-operation. More than 150 persons attended, including many from the Metropolitan Committee of the League of Women Voters and leaders in civic development. Walter Weisenburger, president of the city chamber, opened the program and Robert A. Roessel, chairman of the Metropolitan Committee of the county chamber, presided.

1926 Board Reopened.
A number of members of the 1926 Board of Freeholders, which sought to merge the city and county, were present, including Roessel. That board presented an annexation plan which was favored by the city, but defeated by the county.

Emphasizing his intention to disregard existing pre-schemes, but proceed on a scientific basis, Reed plainly won the regard of his audience. He began by saying, "The metropolitan problem grows out of the fact that cities grow out of their boundaries quicker than they can expand."

"We have a very good spot here," Bartholomew continued, "and we need only to get organized to have a sound and substantial growth. An organization like the City Planning Commission cannot go on forever making plans and carrying them out. St. Louis today isn't fully organized for municipal accomplishment. We're in an age of municipal achievement. If we don't do things now, we're going to be out of step a few years hence."

to stay crowded in cities only by economic pressure. Remove that pressure and they spread out. Manhattan has lost hundreds of thousands of people to the surrounding country, but they are still New Yorkers.

"This transference of population is creating a serious problem of a governmental nature. It was formerly possible for a municipality to keep pace with its growth by annexation. It has become increasingly difficult in recent years to get the outlying communities to consent to annexation and it is as impossible for the city to keep pace with the growth of population by this method."

"The outside communities cherish their own governments and are reluctant to merge their interests in the greater whole, feeling that as part of a greater whole their own local and peculiar interests will be neglected, and the experience of some communities has justified that to a considerable degree. Other problems of the growth of a community such as this cannot be planned in relation to St. Louis alone. Plans, if intelligent and effective, have to take in the outside area. The execution of plans requires some kind of a governmental agency for perfection."

Common Effort Needed.
"There is not here at present an agency to handle problems such as highways, health, transportation and police. The chief does not stop running at the city limits, but may go many miles in an automobile. It is necessary to plan for police protection in the metropolitan area. Disease germs will not lie down and die at the city limits. Mr. Roessel, when he goes home at night, may feel some sentiment when he crosses into Webster Groves, but the typhoid germ will have no such consideration. In a community where people are passing down and forth every day, there is no way of preserving health except by taking some kind of common and concerted measures."

"The problem can only be solved upon a basis of some sort of reasonable co-operation. We found at Pittsburgh the outlying towns ready to fight annexation to the bitter end. We made a study from 1923 to 1928, and they have accepted a new charter, and I think the plan will be approved by the people this month."

"I don't know about Missouri politicians, but I had some experience with those in Pennsylvania. Politicians love the status quo. (This brought applause.) That is natural because the politician is playing the game, and every time you change the rules you make it harder and confuse the players. Not being a politician, I can see no

PARIS, June 4.—The last barrier to a complete agreement by the experts committee on reparations was removed today and the long outstanding problem of Europe's post-war life may be considered settled.

Owen D. Young, chairman of the Reparations Committee, announced upon leaving a plenary session of the experts this evening that a full agreement had been reached by the reparations conference.

The Belgians this afternoon accepted proposals presented by Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, chief German delegate, looking toward solution of the controversy over the redemption of German marks left in Belgium after the war for which Belgium is demanding 37 annuities of 25,000,000 marks (about $6,000,000).

With the acceptance of the Belgians of the German proposal, approval of the experts' report embodying the reparations annuities suggested by Young now becomes unanimous and the historic report which must still be submitted to the Governments concerned for ratification, will be signed either on Friday or Saturday.

Schacht's Proposal.
The Belgians accepted the procedure proposed in a letter presented by Dr. Schacht yesterday to Young. In this letter he stated that the Government had appointed Dr. Erwin Ritter, a ministerial director, as special representative to handle the mark question, and that he was prepared to open the discussion promptly. Schacht suggested immediate negotiations with Belgium whereby the two Governments would agree to enter into negotiations "on a new basis looking to definite settlement of the marks controversy."

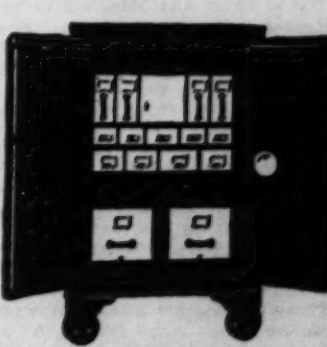

While accepting the procedure, the Belgians made the express condition that no territorial consideration would enter into the conversation. This disposed of reports that Belgium would return Eupen and Malmédy to Germany, districts obtained by the Treaty of Versailles.

Last Point in Dispute.
It was understood, however, that the "Experts' Committee" report would not become effective until

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
HE POST-DISPATCH editorial of May 30—"Free Press and Free Government"—has just been brought to my attention.

It is a corking fine editorial and we in the United Press appreciated it very much, not only because of its friendly attitude toward Mr. Mallon, in whose case we were directly concerned, but because we think it represents what newspaper men universally should feel. There is not a doubt that the Senate Rules Committee men intended to use Mallon as a means of throwing such fear into the hearts of other correspondents in Washington that they would hesitate a long time before writing again about what happened behind the scenes of an executive session.

Instead of that, the reaction of the press in the matter was so prompt and so vigorous that within 24 hours the Rules Committee men found themselves in a caldron of hot water. Their efforts to escape their predicament were amusing indeed. R. J. BENDER.

More Heat Than Light.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
THE letter about the local gas company (by E. R. Pailion) which appeared in this column, was much richer in feeling than in accuracy.

The letter accuses the gas company of impoverishing the city during the war by removing tolls for T. N. T. As a matter of fact, other oils were vaporized again to enrich the gas before it left the manufacturing plants. The B. T. U. standard in St. Louis is still 600. The city chemist checks on the quality of the gas every day at the City Hall.

A dollar buys today just about the same quantity of gas it bought many years ago, despite the increased costs of labor and material. St. Louis enjoys the cleanest gas, of uniform heating value and pressure and gravity.

The motive behind attempts to secure a lower B. T. U. standard is not sinister. It is in line with the best engineering ideas. And many intelligent progressive communities have adopted the lower standard. JOE KOHLBERG.

St. Louis As Sisypheus.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
IT appears to me that the City of St. Louis is going back two steps for every forward step it takes.

Six years ago St. Louisans voted $37,000,000 for public improvements. That was a forward step, but the manner in which city officials are carrying out this work is an excellent example of how utterly inefficient municipal management can be. A few months ago a temporary arrangement was made prohibiting parking on three downtown streets. That was progress. The period of this arrangement is now passed and our downtown streets again resemble a busy animal town on Fair day. Traffic officers are of little or no value in regulating the heavy traffic going in and out of the loop. I have stood on busy corners just to verify my belief that officers cause more confusion than is apparent at intersections that have no police.

It is absolutely impossible to regulate traffic by municipal control. Automatic control, synchronized, is the only method whereby this or any other city can possibly expect an even and rapid movement of its traffic. Traffic (Saturday), with streets packed with cars, one had an excellent opportunity to realize how greatly St. Louis needs new traffic laws and a drastic enforcement of those laws. The sooner city officials and downtown merchants agree to abolish all parking in the loop district, the sooner St. Louis will take on the semblance of a metropolis. J. C. B.

Tariff on Shoes and Hides.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
AND so shoes and hides are to be removed from the free list. Should the new tariff bill become law, and I doubt not it will, there will be a considerable increase in the importation of Czechoslovakian shoes contrary to the expectations of the economic idiots who sponsored a protective tariff on these two commodities.

The American shoe manufacturer will have to pay more for hides. The general price level of all commodities will rise as a result of the new tariff law affecting the prices of many items which enter into the cost of making shoes.

There is a margin below which manufacturers cannot make shoes. The higher cost of manufacturing will necessitate an increase in the price of American-made shoes.

If, with shoes and hides on the free list as at present, importers found it profitable to import about 350,000 pairs of shoes per month what must be the result if American manufacturers are compelled to raise the price of shoes? This ought to be a plenty for Czechoslovakia. But don't take my word for it. Just watch. CHARLES A. GREEN.

DISARMAMENT.

To a world groaning under an all but insupportable burden of armament, Mr. Hoover's address at Arlington and the elevation of Ramsay MacDonald to the premiership of Great Britain must combine to make a happy augury.

America's opportunity, always great, has become extraordinary. If her leadership has not enjoyed primal importance heretofore because of the dual sovereignty of Great Britain at sea, that does not remain so now. The British delegates who destroyed the effectiveness of Mr. Coolidge's disarmament conference at Geneva represented a government whose point of view was far removed from that of the Labor party. The Labor party is to a very high degree pacifist. It is at any rate opposed to spending for armament a great part of the national wealth more immediately needed to feed and clothe the people of the British Isles. As Mr. Stimson has pointed out, a modern battleship costs between $35,000,000 and $40,000,000, and even a modern 10,000-ton cruiser costs more than double the cost of the Library of Congress. It is chiefly in fear of the United States and Great Britain that any sea-power adds to its armament, as it is in distrust of one another that England and the United States are primarily rivals upon the sea. For these two great nations to agree upon what Mr. Hoover calls actual disarmament means more to naval disarmament upon the part of all the sea-powers than any other happening possibly could.

In our opinion, Mr. Hoover stands at the threshold of a new era. He can make his administration illustrious for that of which other Presidents could only dream. He is not altogether the creator of this opportunity. It is one that evolved progressively out of the great war up to his appearance in the White House. The United States in the new role of a creditor nation and the modern Hercules among the nations placed the key to the future in the hands of the first President who would accept it. Mr. Coolidge saw this opportunity dimly. Even had he seen it more clearly than he did, there was the Tory government of Great Britain in his way. At the moment of Mr. Hoover's coming to the White House the Tory government of England is swept away. Possibly this is not so important as it may seem. Mr. Hoover has made disarmament a major cause of his administration. He has given it tremendous impetus by making a clear distinction between theoretical and actual disarmament. He wants results.

The truth is that the world is too poor for big navies. Mr. Stimson says our own program of authorized and contemplated ships of war would cost $1,170,000,000. He adds:

When it is borne in mind that the foregoing figures involve the construction program of only one nation and that if it proceeds other nations will be impelled to follow suit, the burden of unproductive expenditure which will be imposed upon the economic world during the next 15 years can be to a certain extent realized.

In other words, not even the United States can afford it. How much less, then, can the war debt ridden world afford it? Is it any wonder that the people of the British Isles, struggling with unemployment, borne down with war taxes, and trying to sell their manufactured products to peoples also impoverished by the war, have turned from the bellicose Tories to Ramsay MacDonald?

Or is it any wonder that Mr. Hoover, whose practical mind could not patiently contemplate the widespread make-believe and insincerity upon this subject, declares that naval armaments must henceforth be viewed in the light of their defensive and not their aggressive uses?

Their defensive uses would be a much lesser burden for the world to carry.

FATHER VERSUS SON.

Oliver Baldwin, son of the Conservative Prime Minister, Stanley Baldwin, has been elected to the House of Commons as a Laborite. Politically this son and father have nothing whatever in common, just as Lady Cynthia Mosley, an ardent Socialist, was at an opposite political pole from her Tory father, Marquis Curzon.

In the campaign preceding the general elections young Baldwin made a vigorous campaign in which he attacked his father's leadership and policies. It was as though Herbert Hoover Jr. had run for Congress last fall as a supporter of Al Smith, or that young Bob La Follette had reversed the family tradition to become a member of the Republican Old Guard. The mere mention of such family rifts seems a bit shocking to us, but the English apparently take them for granted.

We believe the reason to be that Englishmen have more political consciousness than Americans, and therefore greater independence of political thought. It is the possession of that quality that has made for England's genius in government. From that fateful day in 1215 when the barons wrung the Magna Charta from King John, England has been a laboratory for testing devices to make the people freer and the Government wiser.

Such incidents as the Baldwin feud show that the intellectual ferment out of which comes progress is still in process over there.

WHY WE LOVE THEM.

There was little love lost between Athens and Sparta, as any of the bright young graduates now taking farewell of their cloistered calm can tell you. And old Cato's "delenda est" pretty well summed up Rome's attitude towards Carthage. This interurban hostility has trekked down the ages. There are times when we here in St. Louis would thoroughly enjoy seeing New York consumed by "the fires that over Sodom fell." Again, when a Munroe comes down from Chicago and takes several millions right out of our pockets we think that town deserves everything "Scarface Al" has done to it.

But there are other times when New York and Chicago command our profound admiration, yes, our love, by the murderous venom with which they destroy each other, and all for the glory of St. Louis. Just see what the Giants have been doing to the Cubs these rapturous June days. Three times in gory succession the New York slayers have massacred the bear that was beginning to walk like Napoleon. The happy sequence of this slaughter is visible in the standing of the teams, where the Cardinals are perched proudly on the apex. That is what one might call service.

Turning back the leaves to last year, we pause at what has been aptly termed a critical juncture. The Cardinals, leading by a water, could hear the thunder of the Giants roaring at their heels. "What, ho!" as Sir Walter Scott's heroes used to exclaim in the pinch. Here come the Cubs. For them the pomegranates had turned to ashes, the Palermitian to tepid water. They were, so to speak, out of it. Nothing daunted, they smashed into the Giants' castle, and they laid them low. And Boston, famous for the pillaging of Miles Standish and Paul Revere's gallop and the after-dinner speeches of Garrison, tucked another vine leaf in her hair as the site on which the Cardinals won a second pennant, thanks to Chicago's annihilation of New York.

That is why we utter this simple word of appreciation for "Pineapple" Grove on Lake Michigan and Walt Whitman's bespired "Manahatta."

SINCLAIR'S SECOND SENTENCE.

That there was some question in the public mind as to whether Sinclair had been guilty of a criminal offense in declining, under advice of counsel, to answer the Senate's questions, may be admitted. Indeed, Senator Norris of Nebraska remarked the irony of the circumstance which sent a man to jail for contempt of the Senate who had committed grave crimes for which he had gone scot-free. But there is no question in anyone's mind that the shadowing of the jury in the conspiracy case was an assault upon the processes of justice, an act of flagrant contempt of court, an effort by intimidation or bribery or both to control the verdict. There can be no question as to the turpitude of this second offense, no question as to its criminal intent, no question as to the justice of the punishment.

The American people have, we believe, ceased to get any satisfaction out of the spectacle of Harry Sinclair in a "common jail." There will be no rejoicing at the man's further humiliation and disgrace. But there were occasions for public alarm and misgiving had it been possible for a citizen by reason of his wealth to flout the courts and undermine justice and escape unpunished. That would have verified the cynical aphorism that "you can't convict $100,000,000." It would have been a sinister confirmation of the suspicion, sometimes irritably voiced, that given money enough, justice is helpless. Harry Sinclair exemplifies the truth that equality before the law is still a grim reality. His career required just such a demonstration.

PRESIDENT GIL'S ORDER.

President Gil's order that all Mexican prelates be permitted to re-enter the country is construed to mean that a settlement of the dispute between church and state is at hand.

That may be a fair inference, but we prefer to await more authoritative confirmation of a settlement. The negotiations between the Mexican Government and Archbishop have been conducted with great secrecy, and it would be rash to anticipate their result.

As a symptom that the two parties to an immensely complicated dispute are not sulking in their tents, however, President Gil's order is welcomed.

LEO RASSIEUR, AMERICAN.

Loyal Americanism was the keynote of Leo Rassieur's life. As a youth of 17 he refused to listen to a plan of his elders, that the strong St. Louis German community should be "neutral" as between the Union and the Confederacy. He spoke for the Union, and, with many of the German-born, he fought four years in its cause. Winston Churchill, seeking characters for his Civil War novel, found young Rassieur the most inspiring type of loyalty among the German-born, and he appears in "The Crisis" as Carl Richter. The Richter of the book was killed in action; the original lived to face another crisis, making peculiar demands on those of his birth and blood. His speech at the Coliseum April 5, 1917, on the eve of the declaration of war by Congress, will be long remembered. Reminding his hearers that he was born in Prussia, he declared that the German military autocracy had forced war upon the United States, and he urged vigorous prosecution of the war and full cooperation with "our sister republics and their allies."

THE DEVIL AND HELL.

Is hell a person?
Is hell an actual place?
These questions have disturbed mankind since Adam delved and Eve span. Recently a canvass was held to find out what is thought about them in 1929. A questionnaire answered by 700 Chicago ministers shows that 60 per cent of them believe that Auld Hornie does exist, while 53 per cent grant him a fiery habitat.

An entirely different result was obtained when the same questionnaire was handed to 200 students in five leading theological seminaries. Only nine per cent granted the corporeal entity of Lucifer, and all but 11 per cent were totally skeptical about hell. Here is a discrepancy which must cause considerable distress to such exponents of the old-time religion as the Rev. Billy Sunday.

We look for reprisals at an early date, with Billy pulling Old Nick out of his sleeve for the critical inspection of these heretical theological students.

We are waiting for one of our witty little banks to announce with great ostentation that it has merged with the Federal Reserve Bank in St. Louis.

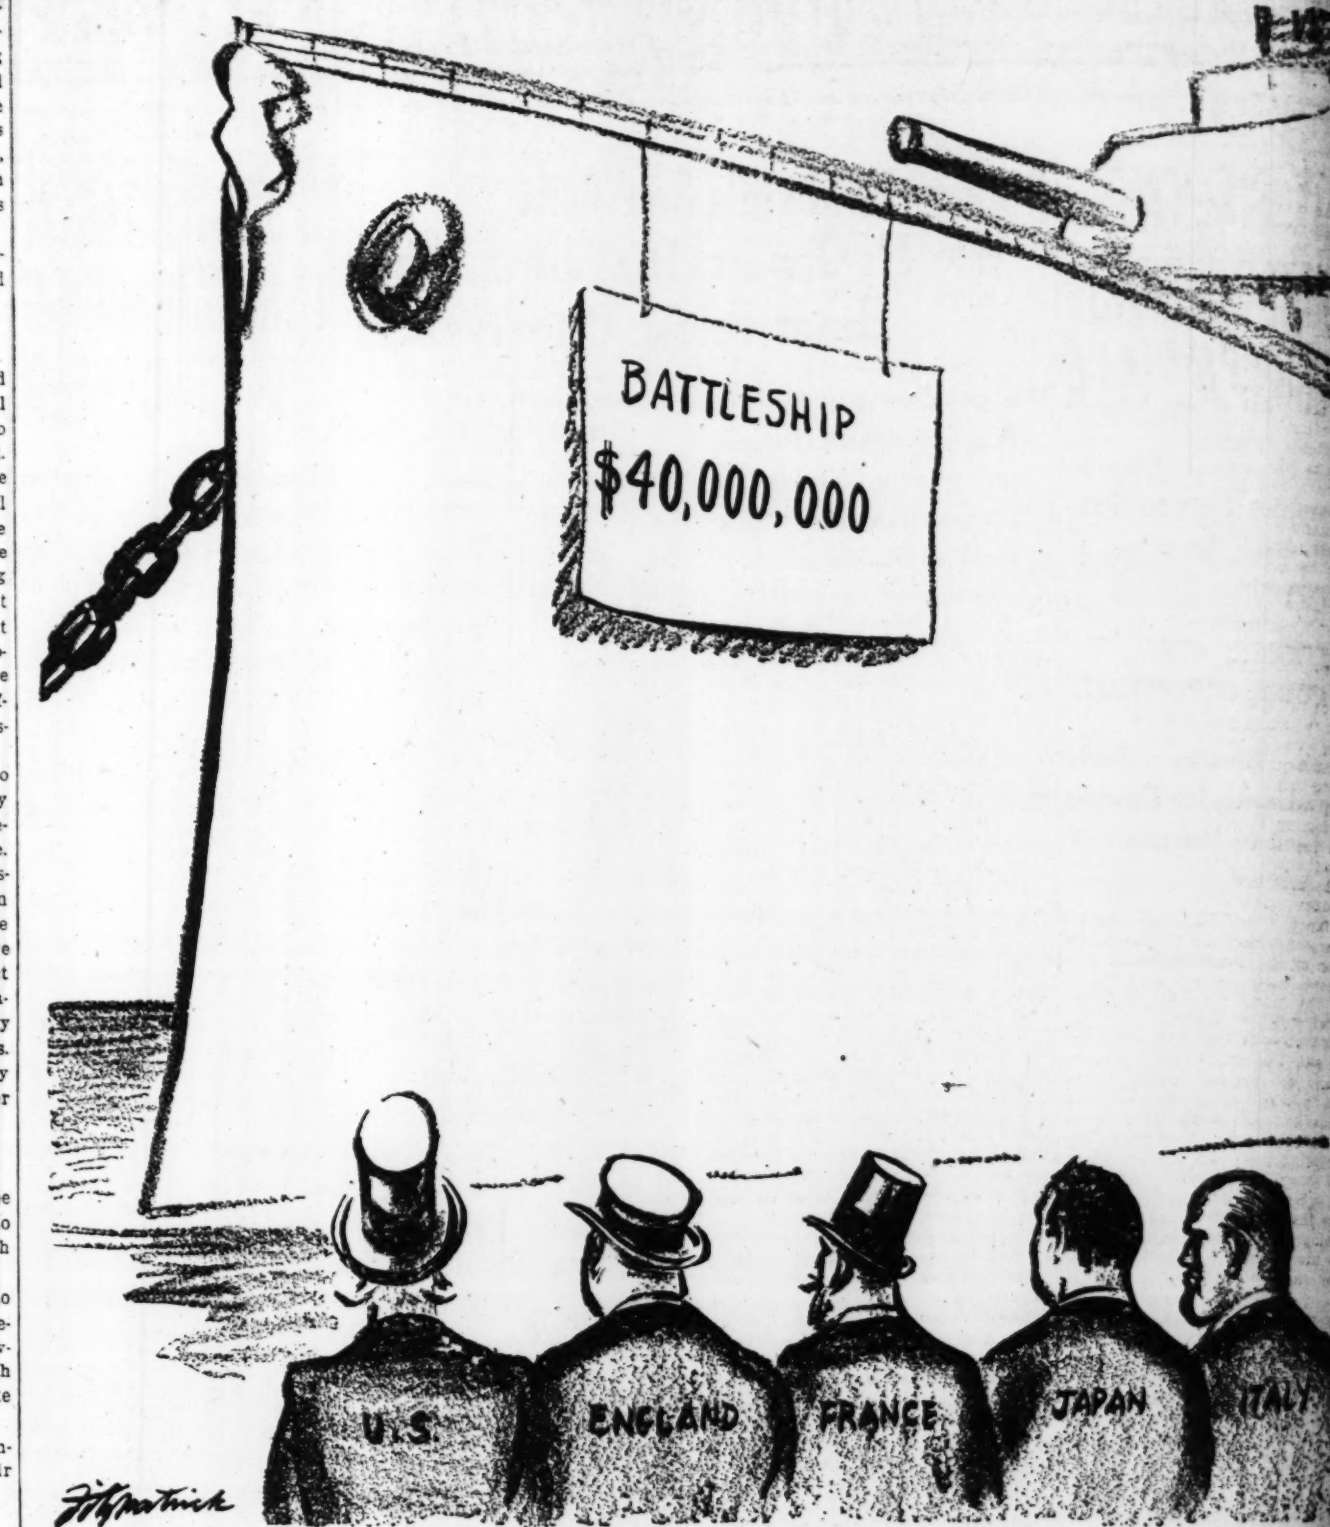

AN OPERATIC JUNE.

It was Frank L. Stanton who sang of it as The scented, sweet contented subtle season when the tunes Of a million birds make music to a million, trillion Junes.

That is the kind of June the municipal opera can count on provided the law of averages is still operating and provided, further, the weather man has even a rudimentary sense of justice.

In the meteorology of 1929 it has been written that April, "the winsome girlhood of the year" was a galeshed, unattractive flapper and the "mad merry May" of lyric tradition was a slattern. Surely this sort of thing can't go on. The most prosaic of us may look for sapphire skies and emerald fields, the crimson rambler and roses and nights that were made for music. True, June has arrived, furred for her pink ears, but that, we are sure, is a gesture. She will presently reveal herself a diaphanous deity, enticing us to the splendor and melody and starry skies of Forest Park.

Iowa leads all the other states in the total value of vegetable and livestock products, which were worth last year $1,217,000,000. Texas followed with $1,168,000,000, and then came in order Illinois, Kansas, Missouri, Wisconsin, California, Ohio, Nebraska and New York, the 10 great agricultural states.

THEY KNOW THEY CAN'T AFFORD IT.

On the Nature of Peace

Peace is an orderly quality which must be created; it is not to be achieved through the emotions, but by rising to the calmer spheres of wisdom and by calling forth the powers of understanding, construction and insight which preside over the greater works of man.

Salvador de Madariaga in The Forum.

WE have to face the fact that the last war was fought by Christian peoples after 20 centuries of Christianity. There are two ways of dealing with this appalling fact. The first is the flippant way. "Let us give Christianity a chance. We have not tried it yet." A witty saying but little more. Christianity has been tried. The Christian leaders of our Christian peoples are not charlatans. The immense majority of the Western peoples are sincere, though, to be sure, mediocre, Christians. What we have to face is the survival of thoroughly un-Christian tendencies within the Christian. It was to these most un-Christian tendencies within them that the Christian leaders and their flocks gave way when the hour of trial came. Christianity broke down in 1914.

But why did it break down? Because no man is a Christian through and through. We have just been looking into the matter. We know that every one of us carries the explosives of self-loving patriotism close to the holy water of his Christianity. These French ex-combatants who silenced the Christian Hymn of Peace by shouting that they wanted to shed the impure blood of their enemies knew only too well that the "impure blood" stanza of the "Marseillaise" is sheer nonsense; yet they sang it with enthusiasm the moment their own blood was made impure by the mud of animal passions.

What is to be done? "Let us rub off those nasty words and sing the tune with new words of peace," says the pacifist schoolmistress. Let us do nothing of the kind. It is not by singing about peace that we are going to get it. For peace is no more natural to men than wisdom, or the theories of Einstein.

Now I am in for it. Lord Cecil said as much—probably less—and yet he was upbraided by a learned anthropologist who claimed that everything in man's constitution and history showed him to be sweet-natured and reasonable. I would ask anthropologists and others to bear in mind the French dictum: Cet animal n'est pas méchant. Quand on l'attaque, il se défend. This animal (man) is not wicked. When attacked, he defends himself. But mark this point. Defense is a beautifully elastic conception which everyone of us is free to stretch as far as it will go—and it will go any length to oblige us.

No. Peace is not a natural state among men, because men do not drift into it. Having conflicting wishes and ambitions, men, left to the operations of drift and fluke, will certainly land themselves into struggle and war. There is a story of Euler sitting down to dinner after having spent a whole afternoon meditating on whether the world had been created by a Divine Intelligence or merely put together by chance as a book he was reading maintained. The astronomer asked his wife: "Do you think that this salad could have been made by a chance coming-together of all its elements?" And she retorted, proud in her achievement: "I bet you it would not have been so good!"

The trouble with all our arguments about peace and war is that peace and war are seen as mere alternatives, while they are really fundamental contraries. War is disorder and destruction—disintegration of energy. A child can shuffle the cards and put them in utter disorder. A child could thoroughly mix and disorganize the lines and colors of theistine Chapel. A bull can disorganize a china shop. But the setting of the cards in their proper order requires patience and intelligence; the painting of theistine Chapel required the genius of Michelangelo; the creation and putting together of a china shop is a work of months, if not years, of purpose. It takes no patience, no intelligence, no purpose to drift into war. But peace is another matter.

Peace is order. It must be created. It must be conceived. It must then pass from the mind that conceives it to the world that awaits in chaos the forms of order which only God and man can create. And that is why peace dwells in a sphere removed from the emotions—good or bad. The schoolmistress of Cholsy le Roi must well, but she revealed the mind, a significant word character of her part played by selecting the tune of the "Marseillaise" for her Hymn of Peace, and by appealing to the emotions of brotherhood. Commenting on "the golden heaven of brotherhood" which she made shine before the fascinated eyes of her school children, a Paris newspaper jeered that such a vision was an ideal fitter for Geneva than for the "poly-racial and gold-saturated United States of America." Such is the brotherly reaction which one is apt to provoke from brotherhood. "That man are brothers no one can doubt," said a wit. "See how they treat each other." No. It is not through our emotions that we are likely to build and maintain peace among men. On the contrary, it is by rising to the calmer spheres of wisdom, by calling forth in us the powers of understanding, construction, and insight which preside over the greater works of man—art, science, and philosophy. And let ex-combatants sing the impure blood out of their systems. And let the children sing nursery songs.

HOW TO KEEP YOUNG.

Jane Addams In The Survey Graphic.
I RECALL an eightieth birthday party given in Chicago long ago, at a table garlanded with 80 roses and seating 80 guests. Some one asked the birthday child how she had always kept so young and she promptly replied, that it was because she had always adopted an unpopular cause; first the abolition of slavery, when, as a first young woman, she had lived in the pre-war South, and then votes for women, which she thought would last her to the end. She explained that no one put you on a pedestal and treated you with respect just because you were old, if you were the advocate of an unpopular cause, you had to defend it, discuss it and take your chances with the wits of the young.

WASHINGTON DAY BY DAY

WASHINGTON, June 4.
IN a small, unpretentious office at the end of the Munitions building a pleasant, bespectacled army officer is about ready to close his desk and retire.
He is Major-General Edgar Jadwin, chief of army engineers, and for more than a quarter of a century one of the world's greatest authorities on flood control and waterways.
He is only 63 years old and doesn't look his age. Mild and unassuming, he may be found at almost any time in a small office smoking his favorite briar and studying the vast array of "maps and charts" that clutter his desk.
On Aug. 7 he leaves it all. With a rank of Lieutenant-General and a reputation that is world-wide he looks forward to spending the remaining years of his life in comparative seclusion.

FEW people know the extent of General Jadwin's experience with large engineering projects.
He went to Panama with Goethals for four years directed the digging of a canal on the Atlantic side of the waterway. After the great storm at Galveston he was Jadwin, then a captain, who supervised reconstruction of the sea wall jetties and fortifications.
During the World War he organized and took to France the Fifteenth engineering and became directing head of the great construction force of 160,000 officers and men—the force that constructed more than 1000 miles of railroad, thousands of buildings and countless miles of highways and record time.

And it is the Jadwin plan that will follow in the Government's effort to curb the mighty Mississippi River.

WATERWAYS have been Gen. Jadwin's hobby during the most of his military career.
Shortly after graduation from West Point in 1890 he was assigned to his first post as chief of the Mississippi River improvement project. He was told to create the size of Ellis Island for immigration purposes.

He started to work and within a year while completed the job. He dredged a channel to the island, built a crib across three sides of it, filled the interior with a material that would not be washed away by the river's flow.

Gen. Jadwin has a deep rooted and sincere faith in his profession.
In 1927 he was on an inspection tour of the flood ravaged Mississippi Valley. The water was still high. A resident of the area approached him and asked if he thought the army engineers could solve the problem of the mighty Mississippi.

He replied in five words:
"They built the Panama Canal."
And it was with this sort of conviction that he plunged into trying to find a solution to what has been described as the world's greatest engineering problem.

Sinclair's Latest Conviction

OF the relatively few people in the American writing game who may be described as absolute self-starters, Upton Sinclair is perhaps the most distinguished. It is an inordinate degree, the course of his convictions; but it is doubtful if courage is the right word. Rather, he seems utterly unacquainted with the usual fears that control gregarious beings. More than once he has been accused of making himself ridiculous, but ridicule is only a form of applause to him.

Sinclair arrived at a new conviction, and, characteristically, he hastens to tell the rest of mankind about it. It is such as to delight those among his enemies who are unable to entertain generous enthusiasm about anything at all. "I have written a new book," says Sinclair in a circular letter recently received, "and you will be surprised when you hear its subject. Most of my life I have been following the literature of psychic research, without ever knowing quite what to believe. I would read of amazing things and never feel sure if they happened or if the people were fooling themselves.

But for several years my wife has had a great deal of suffering, and the problem of the mind and its hidden powers has become of importance to her. She has studied a library of books, and finally made up her mind that she was going to know, one way or the other, about the things called telepathy and clairvoyance; and she was going to learn to do what the mediums do—and she has done it.

FUNERAL SERVICES TOMORROW FOR ANDREW J. JORDAN

He Was Retired Cutlery Manufacturer and One of Founders of St. Louis Club.
Funeral services for Andrew J. Jordan, retired cutlery manufacturer, who died yesterday at his home in the St. Regis Apartments of the infirmities of age, will be held at 3 p. m. tomorrow at St. Paul's Presbyterian Church. Burial will be in the city cemetery.
Mr. Jordan, who was 53 years old, was the founder of the St. Louis Cutlery Co. Born in Baltimore, Md., he came to St. Louis as a young man and established his first factory here in 1871. Specializing in the manufacture of cutlery, he opened additional factories in Sheffield, England, and divided his time between St. Louis and Sheffield.
In St. Louis, Mr. Jordan was one of the founders of the old St. Louis Club and was one of the last residents of the old Southern Hotel to move from England to Royal Garden and the Institute.
Mr. Jordan was married to a daughter, with whom he lived. He was a member of the St. Paul's Presbyterian Church and the St. Louis Cutlery Co. He was a member of the St. Louis Club and the St. Louis Southern Hotel.

THE GENESIS OF THE SOCIAL GOSPEL. By Chester Charlton McGovern, professor of New Testament literature in the Pacific School of Religion. (Knopf.) The fundamental principle of this study is the thesis that Judaism in the days of Jesus represented not the independent evolution of an isolated national group, but a syncretism of all the ancient civilizations which centered about the eastern end of the Mediterranean Sea. In the light of this thesis, the author has undertaken to trace the development of the social ideals of the Hebrews throughout their history, to the end that the various factors that influenced the teaching of Jesus might be made clear.

ST. LOUIS UNIVERSITY GIVES DEGREES TO 424

Plans for Erection of $250,000 Commerce and Finance Building Announced.

The 111th annual commencement exercises of St. Louis University were held in the gymnasium, Spring avenue and West Pine boulevard, today, starting at 10 a. m. with a procession of the 424 graduates and the faculty, in caps and gowns, from the Administration building, over Grand and Lindell boulevards and Spring avenue to the gymnasium. George Frederick Zook, president of the University of St. Louis, delivered the commencement address.

Plans for the construction of a building to house the School of Commerce and Finance next September were announced by the Rev. Charles H. Cloud, J. J. president of the university. The structure, which will accommodate about 1000 students and cost $250,000, will be erected on property adjoining the law school on the south side of Lindell boulevard between Grand boulevard and Spring avenue.

Dr. James J. Walsh, New York, Catholic author and medical director of the Fordham University School of Sociology, addressed the annual meeting of the alumni at Hotel Jefferson last night. He stated his disapproval of the American rush to acquire wealth which, he said, is blinding the people to the benefits of well-spent leisure.

The Value of Leisure.

"Leisure is the most important thing in life, though of course work is an essential element," said Dr. Walsh. "A man's work does not necessarily reveal much about his character but tell me what he does with his leisure and I will tell you what sort of man he is. The leisure of our generation is largely devoted to not doing anything for thought but to that which will keep us from thinking."

Dr. Walsh cited the fourth century B. C. and the thirteenth century A. D. as the greatest in art, architecture and literature, because men spent one-third of their time in leisure.

"Our own age is one of interest in things," said the speaker. "Things are in the saddle and ride mankind. We are very proud of our inventions, yet most of them were anticipated by the insects. Are we engaged in making an insect civilization and calling it progress? We are busy, it seems to me, not only in cultivating trifles, but in pursuing them with a deadly earnestness that precludes our giving attention to anything else. The witchery of trifles seems to obscure all that is good in life."

Leisure in New York.

"We are educating people how to make a living rather than how to use their leisure properly. The result is, I think, the most depressing leisure in this country, instead of being sources of uplift, are just the opposite."

"In New York, at least, the young folks spend their time on the subway and elevated trains absorbing the sex and murder stories in the tabloids. They got to the movies and more crime, usually sex crime, flows through their minds. So, too, usually, the theater. This they get used to crime, and it is no wonder that the prisons are full of prisoners who are scarcely more than boys. There is a spiritual side to sex that has been the source of some of the most beautiful poetry in the world, but of this the youngsters have the faintest idea."

"But he knows this, or thinks he does, that boldness is to be admired, that women can be pleased with money, that money may be gotten easily. And so he plans his leisure."

MRS. CECILIA E. KELLEY DIES; WAS DESCENDANT OF CRUSADER

Mrs. Cecilia E. Kelley, descendant of a pioneer French family and widow of Isaac D. Kelley, died yesterday of heart disease at her home, 5800 Enright avenue. She was 74 years old.

Mrs. Kelley, daughter of Virginia Primus McKens, was born at Thirteenth street and Washington avenue. She was a descendant of Jean Sale Lajole, who accompanied Laclède on the voyage that resulted in the founding of St. Louis in 1764. Her mother's family traces its ancestry to Alexander de la Pryme of France, who served under Philip of Alsace in the Second Crusade. Her chief interest in recent years had been in genealogy and the early history of St. Louis.

She is survived by a daughter, Virginia P. Kelley; two sons, H. E. and Dr. I. D. Kelley, and five grandchildren. Funeral services will be held tomorrow at 9 a. m. at St. Rose's Church, with burial in Calvary Cemetery.

Konetsky Married 56 Years.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Konetsky, 7701 Circle drive, Normandy, observed their fiftieth anniversary last night. The celebration was attended by their four children, five grandchildren and friends. Mr. and Mrs. Konetsky were married in Germany and came to St. Louis the following year. Each is 79 years old. Konetsky was for many years a department head at the Hyde Park Brewery.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, June 4. No section of New York has been so extravagantly publicized lately as the Harlem Black Belt. It has been whooped up in a half dozen plays and as many books. Cabaret resorts attract hordes of downtown slummers and Strivers Row is the scene of studio sources attended by whites.

Harlem in recent years has given the stage Florence Mills, Bill Robinson, Adelaide Hall and others and sent Josephine Baker, a dusky singer, to triumph in Paris, and Paul Robeson in London. Jules Bledsoe and Roland Hayes have become singularly conspicuous in singing roles.

Two currently successful plays and three big-selling novels have been authored by Negroes. From such surface indications the Negro would appear to have attained a striking stage of artistic development, yet those who know say the majority in Harlem face economic disaster.

Judging from the colorful flow on Lenox avenue, the district has never before displayed such fine feathers. The gaudy sheiks and flashily dressed brown skins are promiscuous in every block. But these it would seem are representative of only a favored few. Many doors have closed to colored workers.

Except on Pullman trains, there are few places where a colored maid, and the colored nurse has a similar struggle. Hair dressing and manicure parlors, once an occupational high spot, are now using only white girls, chiefly Scandinavians. Washroom attendants are also mostly white.

Most hotels long ago discarded

the colored waiter in favor of foreign importations. This also applies to chefs. And there are only a handful of colored valets and butlers, and just a straggling few footmen, coachmen, yardmen and chauffeurs.

First-class apartment houses are no longer employing colored elevator operators, and apartment houses that do employ chiefly the West Indian Negroes, who are far from popular in Harlem. Posts of doormen and building superintendents are also seldom held by colored folk.

FORTUNATE gentlemen who slip off to Bar Harbor and other natty nooks over week ends for golfing in the sunshine and canoeing in the moonlight usually land at Grand Central Monday morning. To the red caps they are gliders' colloquialism for gilding the palm. They are reputed the most extravagant of all tipsters.

SMART hair dressing and beauty parlors now ask patrons to make engagements at least a week in advance. In spite of 100 new salons opening in the metropolitan district last year, the business has grown out of bounds. Hair dressers on liners in port are able to work full time. The big factor in the increase of trade is the demand for beauty treatments. Women who used to have "facials" once a week often make a daily visit. And so far as one can notice homely women remain homely.

Upper Broadway is acquiring all the chop suey dance hall, souvenir shop and vaudeville glitter of the lower strip and is to have two legitimate theaters above 72d street playing first-class attractions.

Closing Time for Foreign Mails.

Paul European mails will close at 9 p. m. tomorrow. Parcel post for Germany and full European mails, excepting France, Italy and Yugoslavia must reach the main post-office by 9 p. m. today. Another consignment of parcel post for Germany, for full European mails and Great Britain, will close at 9 p. m. Thursday.

WASHINGTON DAY BY DAY

WASHINGTON, June 4.

In a small, unpretentious office at the far end of the Munitions building a pleasant, bespectacled army officer is about ready to close his desk and retire.

He is Major-General Edgar Jadwin, chief of army engineers, and for more than a quarter of a century one of the world's greatest authorities on flood control and waterways.

He is only 63 years old and doesn't look his age. Mild and unassuming, he may be found at almost any time in his small office smoking his favorite briar or a studying the vast array of maps and charts that clutter his desk.

On Aug. 7 he leaves it all. With the rank of Lieutenant-General and a reputation that is world-wide he looks forward to spending the remaining years of his life in comparative seclusion.

FEW people know the extent of Gen. Jadwin's experience with large engineering projects.

He went to Panama with Goethals and for four years directed the digging of the canal on the Atlantic side of the waterway.

After the great storm at Galveston it was Jadwin, then a captain, who superintended reconstruction of the sea walls, jetties and fortifications.

During the World War he organized and took to France the Fifteenth engineers and became directing head of the great construction force of 160,000 officers and men—the force that constructed more than 1000 miles of railroad, thousands of buildings and countless miles of highways—record time.

And it is the Jadwin plan that will be followed in the Government's effort to curb the mighty Mississippi River.

WATERWAYS have been Gen. Jadwin's hobby during the most of his military career.

Shortly after graduation from West Point in 1890 he was assigned to his first harbor improvement project. He was told to triple the size of Ellis Island for immigration purposes.

He started to work and within a short while completed the job. He dredged a channel to the island, built a crib around three sides of it, filled the interior and created an island three times its original size.

He so impressed his superiors that he was sent to the engineering school at West Point, at New York harbor, where he was graduated in both civil and military engineering.

Gen. Jadwin has a deep rooted and sincere faith in his profession.

In 1927 he was on an inspection tour of the flood ravaged Mississippi Valley. The water was still high. A resident approached him and asked if he thought the army engineers could solve the problem of the mighty Mississippi.

He replied in five words:

"They built the Panama Canal."

And it was with this sort of determination that he plunged into trying to find a solution to what has been described as the world's greatest engineering problem.

$600,000 CLARK AV. VIADUCT APPROVED

First Step in Making New Through Street From River to Forest Park.

The first step of a plan to transform Clark avenue into an 80-foot highway from the river to Forest Park, providing a south outlet for the congested area, was taken today when the Board of Public Service approved a bill for the construction of a $600,000 viaduct over Union Station and for the widening of Clark avenue to 80 feet from Twentieth street to Compton avenue.

Under the terms of an agreement with the Terminal Railroad Association, the association will pay $150,000 of the cost of the viaduct. Director of Streets and Sewers Brooks told the other members of the board.

Clark avenue is 50 feet wide from the river to Twentieth street and the proposed viaduct will be 80 feet wide. West of Twentieth street, Clark avenue now is only 60 feet wide. At present, Clark avenue ends at Compton avenue, where it runs into Market street, but under the new plan, it would cross Market street on a viaduct, plans for which have not been completed, and would extend through private property, including the south side of Handlan's Park, to Grand boulevard, where it would connect with Forest Park boulevard.

No estimate has been prepared of the cost of the widening or of opening the avenue through the private property. The proposed ordinance approved today will go to the Board of Aldermen for action.

CITY TO LET LAMBERT-ST. LOUIS FIELD CONTRACTS JUNE 18

Contracts for grading and draining Lambert-St. Louis Field will be let by the city on June 18. The contracts will specify that work must start within 10 days.

A recent ordinance set aside $275,000 of the $1,500,000 bond issue funds available for grading, sewer installation and the diversion of Cold Water Creek, which bisects the field. The work will be completed in October, city engineers estimate.

SLAYER OF SISTER WILL BE BLIND, DOCTORS SAY

Self-Inflicted Wound of Charles H. Lutz Severs Optic Nerves.

Blindness will be the lot of Charles H. Lutz, who yesterday killed his sister, Mrs. Louis A. Held, in the presence of their father, Charles F. Lutz, and then shot himself through the head.

City Hospital physicians today said that Lutz's wound, inflicted by a .38-caliber bullet entering the right temple and passing out at the left temple, would not prove fatal unless infection developed. They said also that the optic nerves had been severed, destroying the sight of both eyes.

Prosecution of Lutz for the murder of his sister, probably will wait upon his recovery. He was held for homicide by the verdict of a coroner's jury today.

The funeral of Mrs. Held, wife of a patrolman, will be held at 1:30 p. m. Thursday at an undertaking chapel at 3634 Gravois avenue.

The killing and attempted suicide, which occurred at the elder Lutz's home, 6127 Grand-Kings-highway, resulted from Charles H. Lutz's belief that his sister would keep him out of a share in their father's substantial property.

Lutz, who is 40 years old and who has been an insurance salesman, wrote a letter embodying his grievances against his sister and her husband, before he went to his father's home. The Helds, he declared in the letter, planned to keep him out of the estate of his father, now 75 years old.

"There will be no trouble at this visit," he wrote, "unless Held interferes or my sister goads me. Notify my wife if there is."

PLEA FOR NEW VIADUCT FAILS

Mayor Refuses Request of Delegation for Lansdowne Av. Structure.

Representatives of the St. Louis and St. Louis County Chambers of Commerce called on Mayor Miller today and urged the early construction of a viaduct over the River des Peres at Lansdowne avenue in Southwest St. Louis, in order that the Ozark Trail, now paved in St. Louis County, might be connected with Chippewa street in the city.

The Board of Estimate and Apportionment last week refused an appropriation of $110,000 for the viaduct because of lack of funds. The Mayor declined today to change the decision.

SUGGESTS CHIEF GEEK STUDY USE OF RADIO ON SQUAD CARS

An inspection trip by Chief Kerk to cities which use radio-equipped police automobiles was suggested yesterday by Lon O. Hocker, president of the Police Board, who has been watching experiments made by Chicago and Detroit departments.

The installation of equipment at police headquarters for the transmission of emergency messages to mission automobiles has been discussed by the board, Hocker said, but members wished to postpone action until the system was further away from the experimental stage. Interception of messages by criminals is one of the difficulties to be overcome, he pointed out.

Hocker called attention to a recent news dispatch stating that Detroit police in radio-equipped machines had made 98 arrests last month in a total of 115 minutes.

BELGIUM ACCEPTS SEPARATE PARLEY ON MARK DISPUTE

The mark question was settled between Germany and Belgium. This was in line with the expressed Belgian contention that it could not accept a settlement of reparations which did not include redemption of the German marks left in Belgium subsequently to become valueless.

The reparations experts brought their efforts to solve the reparations problem to a successful issue about 1 o'clock this afternoon when the Belgians announced acceptance of the proposed procedure for settlement of the mark question. This disposed of the last contested points in four months of negotiations in the course of which the conference was twice on the point of breaking up.

Consolidates Peace.

The settlement, in the opinion of all experts who took part in it, will go farther to consolidate the peace of Europe than anything since the peace conference.

One result, commented on in allied circles, is that it will make the reparations and debt settlement a German-American problem since, apart from greatly reduced sums for the reconstruction of devastated regions, the greater portion of annuities will go to meet payments by the United States war debtors. It would be going too far to say that the agreement will satisfy all parties. The French insist they are getting less than they ought to have while the smaller creditors consider that they have come short in the reduction of annuities. It is regarded, however, that French public opinion is prepared to accept the accord because, while held to be utterly inadequate, it is looked upon as the best that can be expected.

Young, who played a prominent part in the Dawes agreement, was the first to receive the congratulations of his colleagues on the Belgian agreement. It was considered his achievement. It was his success from breaking up. Young induced the creditors to put forward their figures. He prevented a positive break when the Germans put in a counter-proposal that the creditors said they could not consider.

Young to Sail Saturday.

Young and the other two United States delegates will sail for home Saturday. In all his work here he was supported by J. P. Morgan, Thomas W. Lamont and Thomas X. Perkins. The former is on his way back home.

The accord, incidentally, is expected to facilitate ratification of the allied war debts due the United States since the settlement provides that annuities are to run throughout the period of the debt payments to amounts sufficient to meet them.

It will also lead to complete evacuation of the Rhineland, within the time required for necessary negotiations and material arrangements to withdraw the forces.

What Germany Agrees to Pay. After nine years of discussion and controversy, Germany is called on to pay the allies approximately $27,000,000,000, including interest for 59 years, in addition to what it already has paid. The present value of the payments is estimated at $9,000,000,000. The allies recognize Germany has paid $2,000,000,000, while Germany claims credit for $10,000,000,000, largely represented by German property seized during the war or now held by other countries.

Of the $20,000,000,000 agreed upon a little more than half goes to France and two-thirds of the total would pay the allies' debts to the United States.

Reparation for the devastated areas of France, Belgium and other countries originally was fixed at $22,000,000,000 eight years ago, but it was soon apparent that this was too high for Germany.

The $20,000,000,000 represent the total debt, but Germany, in fact, will pay an average of about $492,000,000 yearly for 37 years as interest and amortization. Thereafter, for 21½ years it will pay about $408,000,000 to meet exactly the allies' debts to the United States.

Nationalists Leave Reichstag Committee Meeting Over Reparations. By the Associated Press. BERLIN, June 4.—German Nationalists walked out of the Reichstag's Foreign Affairs Committee meeting today when the coalition majority voted down a motion to take definite action on the reparations conference in Paris.

When the Nationalists found themselves outvoted, they left in a body. They stated their interpolation called for a refusal to accept the terms agreed to by Dr. Brüning, Schacht, and his co-delegates, but was "throttled" by the majority.

SEEKS TO MAKE CONTRACTORS MUFFLE MOTOR-DRIVEN TOOLS. Brooks Wants All to Adopt Method Used to Silence Shovel Digging River Des Peres Sewer. Following the successful muffling of the exhaust of the big shovel that has dug the River des Peres sewer channel, six cubic yards at a time, Director of Streets and Sewers Brooks is investigating the possibility of forcing all contractors for public work to muffle their shovels and other motor-driven apparatus.

If he finds he can do so, Brooks will require all contractors to sign an agreement to provide mufflers for their tools before he issues permits for construction. The maximum cost of mufflers, he has learned, is $56.

Residents from Lindell boulevard to Julian avenue complained about the noise of the big shovel, Brooks said. There have been no complaints for the last few weeks.

GERMAN SOCIETIES DEMAND POSSESSION OF COLONIES

ALLENSTEIN, Germany, June 4.—Societies interested in German colonial development have adopted a resolution declaring that "possession of colonies is a necessity of life for Germany."

The resolution reads in part: "Dr. Schacht's praiseworthy plan for German-owned raw material sources, as well as the German Government's declaration on entrance to the League of Nations, are merely isolated incidents. The German Government must by forceful declarations and determined negotiations show that it stands wholeheartedly behind the colonial demands of the entire nation."

SECOND CLAIM AGAINST STANLEY EPSTEIN, INC.

Grocer, Seeking to Intervene in Receivership Suit, Tells of $243 Irregularity.

A motion to intervene in the receivership suit filed last week against the real estate firm of Stanley Epstein, Inc., was filed yesterday in behalf of Julius Shafal, East St. Louis grocer, who owns real estate at 1415 Carr street.

Shafal, whose claim is similar to that of the original plaintiff, Max Levy, says the Epstein company, as agent for his property, failed to pay taxes and accrued penalties amounting to $243.94, although the real estate firm is holding $475 of his money.

The petition filed by Attorney Oliver T. Remmers, alleges that Shafal demanded payment of the delinquent taxes from time to time, but makes no further allegations as in the suit of Levy, a grocer, 1001 Brooklyn street, who charged the corporation was insolvent, and that the affairs of the company were irregular and mismanaged. The motions will be heard June 12 before Circuit Judge Landwehr, when Stanley Epstein, Inc., has been ordered to show cause why it should not be placed in receivership.

One "Stanley Epstein Project" which failed to go through was disclosed Saturday by City Collector Koehn, who announced that unless a check for $159.07 tendered the city for metered water service at two buildings for which Epstein is agent, was made good by today, the water supply at the buildings would be shut off. The check was returned twice from the bank on which it was issued, marked "insufficient funds."

The Epstein firm, which reported $5,000,000 of sales last year, has handled numerous West End apartments which were placarded with signs reading "Another Stanley Epstein Project."

Found Dead in Doorway.
Max Gust, a painter, 59 years old, 808 Greely avenue, Webster Groves, was found dead this morning, seated in a doorway at 725 Marshall avenue a short time after he had left his home to go to a grocery. He is survived by a wife and three sons. An inquest will be held to determine the cause of death.

1000 MEN BUILDING LOOP AROUND BURSTING LEVEE

Progress of Work Calms Fears of People That Flood Will Sweep Greenville, Miss.

By the Associated Press. GREENVILLE, Miss., June 4.—Efforts of 1000 men who worked all night constructing an auxiliary loop around a crashing Mississippi River levee two and a half miles south of Greenville served today to calm a frightened populace, that feared a repetition of the flood of 1927.

A thousand other workers previously had finished a loop in which 10,000 sacks of sand were used around the base of the levee. That was accomplished despite the surging water. The first contingent retired in favor of the all night army of workers.

When the blowout occurred early yesterday, hurried calls for aid summoned practically every able-bodied man into the fight to save the city.

CAULFIELD SIGNS BUDGET ACT; TO BE EFFECTIVE AUG. 27

Measure Gives Tax Commission Power to Inquire Into State Costs and Fix Amounts Needed.

By BOYD F. CARROLL.
Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, June 4.—The budget bill, providing more adequate powers for budget-making and control of some of the expenditures of the Missouri Government was signed yesterday by Gov. Caulfield, and will become effective Aug. 27, along with other laws enacted by the 1929 Legislature.

This was one of the principal measures advocated by Caulfield in his program of legislation. Actual drafting of the measure was left to a group of Senate and House members, and a bill introduced by State Senators Cave of Fulton, and Donnelly of Lebanon, both Democrats, finally was put through with several amendments added by the House.

Administration of the budget law is left to the State Tax Commission, appointed by the Governor, which now exercises some small budget powers.
The act is said to be as strong as it could be without amending the State constitution. It authorizes the Tax Commission to make all necessary investigations to ascertain the financial requirements of all State departments, boards, bureaus and institutions, and to compel the attendance of witnesses and production of records, if necessary, to obtain the information.

The biennial budget will be prepared by the commission, for submission to the Legislature. The Governor may make such changes as he considers necessary before the budget is submitted to the Legislature.

The Legislature is not bound to accept the budget recommendations, as it has full power in passing appropriation laws, subject to veto by the Governor. However, it is thought the Legislature will be inclined to accept the recommendations prepared under the scientific method proposed in the act.

15 TIMES TO SPAN A HAIR

In the making of a Lincoln car more than a hundred operations are kept within a limit of error 15 times smaller than the width of a hair! When one considers such close mechanical co-ordination, the extraordinary long, quiet life of the Lincoln becomes easily credible.

Intrinsic resistance to wear is no less a feature of this splendid car than the beautiful, unchanging style of its coachwork—easily recognized as the craftsmanship of the world's greatest coachmakers. That is why, when you pause to admire a Lincoln, its length of service, its year of manufacture, never occurs to you. . . . It is, for all time, a Lincoln.

Occasionally it is possible to secure Lincolns at advantageous prices . . . fine cars, all generally in service for but a few thousand miles. Every one is in perfect mechanical condition. We are always glad to demonstrate them to you, without the slightest obligation.

Opposes New Grain Rates.
By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—J. S. Brown, representing the Chicago Board of Trade, told the Interstate Commerce Commission today that the proposed scale of rates which a commission examiner had suggested for Western territory would increase present rates as much as 10 per cent. Testifying at the assumption of the commission's investigation into grain rates in the West, Brown declared that he thought a new scale of rates was necessary, adding that the proposed by the examiner was entirely unsatisfactory.

FULL APPROPRIATION FOR FARM AID URGED

Leaders Urge to Make $500,000,000 Available at Once.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—Congressional leaders indicated today that after the enactment of the pending farm bill, they would favor a recommendation by the Department of Agriculture to make available immediately the $500,000,000 appropriation proposed by the measure for the stabilization of the agricultural industry.

The farm bill, which is expected to be enacted into law within a week or 10 days, merely authorizes a $500,000 appropriation.

It had been thought that the department would suggest an immediate appropriation of only $100,000,000 or $200,000,000, but some leaders now favor appropriating the full amount.

These leaders take the view that the wheat situation demands immediate attention, and if the Farm Board is to buy up the surplus wheat crop, about $175,000,000 would be needed for this alone.

They hold the board ought to have the full amount so as to be able to take full advantage of its powers under the bill.

The Farm Relief Conference Committee is hopeful it can complete its work tomorrow of composing differences between the Senate and House. A session was ordered for tonight to consider the order of debate plan, which has been the chief stumbling block in the way of final agreement.

At today's meeting, the Conference Committee accepted the Senate provisions for insurance of the wheat price declines and also the House provision for setting up clearance house associations.

The conferees also agreed to eliminate the Senate provisions under which the $500,000,000 to be given the board would be allocated to specific uses, accepting the House sections which would give the board the right to use the money in whatever way it might see fit.

SEEKS $50,000 FOR BEING PUT OUT OF OFFICE BY WOMAN

E. E. Davis, Former Head of Tool Firm, Says Mrs. E. J. Gardner Had Him Ejected.

A suit for $50,000 damages based on alleged assault and false arrest was filed in Circuit Court yesterday by Emory E. Davis, former president of the Davis Boring Tool Co., which was sold at a receiver's sale a year ago, against Mrs. Evelyn J. Gardner, 5696 Kingsbury avenue, the Isaac T. Cook Co. manager of the Arcade Building, where Mrs. Gardner has office quarters, and S. T. Davis, a watchman in the building.

Davis avers that last Friday when he was in Mrs. Gardner's office to see an accountant who has office space with her, she called the watchman and had him ejected. The watchman, he alleges, forcibly escorted him outside of the building, where he released him.

The plaintiffs' attorney, Bert Fenn, said Mrs. Gardner formerly was an officer in the Boring Tool Company. Mrs. Gardner could not be reached, but an officer of the Cook company said it was his understanding that the plaintiff voluntarily left Mrs. Gardner's office and no force was used.

WIDE COMMUNICATIONS INQUIRY URGED BY SENATE COMMITTEE

Body Seeks Authority to Investigate Radio, Telegraph, Telephone and Cable Fields.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—The Senate was asked today by its Interstate Commerce Committee for authority to investigate the whole field of interstate communication by radio, telegraph, telephone and cable and the transmission of power.

The committee approved a resolution by Chairman Coughlin to ask for authority for the investigation in scope of which would include relationship between the various kinds of communications and the ownership, trade practices and activities of corporations engaged in the business.

The committee would be required to submit a report recommending legislation to regulate interstate as well as foreign communication. It would receive $15,000 to meet expenses.

Complaints made against telephone companies on the Pacific Coast were called to the attention of the committee by Senator Dill (Dem.), Washington, who suggested that a subcommittee might be sent there to hold hearings. No decision, however, was reached by the committee.

The committee now is considering a bill to create a new Federal communications commission which would regulate all forms of interstate communication.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH'S APPROVAL OF MERGER PLAN AWAITED
DETROIT, Mich., June 4.—With only approval by the general convention of the Christian church standing in the way of union of the National Council of the Congregational Churches and the Christian body, the biennial meeting of the Congregationalists was nearing close today. The Christian church body is expected to vote for the merger plan at a meeting in Piqua, O., in October and the joint body will meet in 1931, probably at Hartford, Conn. The united body will be composed of some 6,500 churches and more than 1,000,000 members.

DOUBTS POWER OF POLICE TO SILENCE LOUDSPEAKERS
Associate City Counselor Bull Gives Opinion: Radio Ordinance Now Pending.

Under existing ordinances, police virtually are powerless to silence or tone down radio loudspeakers which have been the source of numerous complaints to Chief of Police Gerk, according to an opinion by Associate City Counselor Bull.

In response to a request for a definition of police power in the matter, Bull expresses a doubt that the courts would consider seriously a prosecution under the nuisance ordinance. Action could be taken under the peace disturbance ordinance but it would be necessary for the police to inform the complaining witnesses that their testimony might be the basis for a civil suit by the defendant. An injunction suit by individual complainants is suggested by Bull as the only possible remedy. He pointed out that the passage of a bill now pending before the Board of Aldermen, which specifically defines the loud operation of a radio loudspeaker as an offense, is necessary to give the police authority.

Meditations OF A Married Woman

By Helen Rowland

DOLLARS AND LOVE.
SOMEONE ought to write a book on "How to Hold a Woman's Love."

In a world overflowing with advice on how to capture and hold a elusive mate, it would be so refreshing. And if Gertrude herton is right, there is a crying need for such a work.

"The modern woman," says Mrs. herton, "is finding the modern to dull and quite a bore." Couldn't that flatten your marital love?

Yet her statement is backed up by the fact that in Washington a group of debutantes have formed "Bachelor Girls' Club," with the avowed purpose of discouraging marriage, and promoting single womanhood.

Of course, to the conquering hero, all this looks like "just a gesture." Just "an alibi," in the way they fail to make the grade matrimony.

Well, let's be perfectly frank and honest about it. Economic independence and modern freedom have made women a lot more famous and "choicy" in the matter of male companionship. To a girl who is a perfectly good job and plenty of spending money, marriage looks more like a beautiful dream than like a dire necessity.

Yet, glorious and thrilling as romantic independence may be, it is never take the place of romance, love and marriage in any girl's existence. A career, fascinating and exciting, but you tie ribbons on your brain-strings, not sing them lullabies.

Love and money and success are ideal. But the average woman is just that "weak" that she would rather be plucking laurels on her own than winning them for herself. And there is a thrill about the man you love buy for you that exceeds any other you ever got out of a weekly envelope.

So, dear heart! If women are doing a little dubiously at marriage and a little speculatively at it, there is more to it than a gesture.

Men have lost their glamorous air in the eyes of women because they have almost forgotten to talk to women or how to be companionable.

After concentrating his whole life on the pursuit of the almighty dollar for eight or 10 hours a day, about all a man can do is to entertain a woman in evening to offer her a kiss, finger or a diamond bracelet.

By the time night comes, the brilliant business man's imagination has "gone dead," his mind is a blank and even his heart slowed down to low gear. There is a sparkle left anywhere in his brain, and his conversation sounds like one long yawn.

So each dance party and play is a mechanical sort of thing, but you sort of get the reason that he "keeps going" in order to prove that he's conscious.

Some day man will get tired of a dollar-slave and a robot, will learn again to read books, enjoy poetry and music and art. And then, perhaps, he will know how to charm a woman.

Because, after all, chasing dollars dulls the imagination and lessens the senses, and is very sport beside chasing rainbows and romance.

Honor Grandmothers, Mrs. Hoover Urges

MRS. HERBERT HOOVER thinks there should be a special grandmothers' division in the National Parents and Teachers association.

Presented with a life membership in that organization, Mrs. Hoover expressed her appreciation by declaring that she was glad to know the doors were open to grandmothers as well as mothers.

Mrs. Hoover herself is a grandmother. Her little grand-daughter, Peggy Ann, and her grandson, Herbert Hoover III, made the White House lively as soon as the Hoovers moved in. They are the children of Herbert Hoover Jr.

Quiet Entertainment
The little girl who is convalescing may be entertained in a quiet way by giving her a pair of scissors, an old magazine and a cheap blank book. She can then furnish a scrap book doll's house by cutting pictures from the magazine and pasting them in the scrap book, each page representing a different room.

Apple Pudding
Two eggs, 1 cup sugar, 1/2 cup butter, 1 cup sweet milk, 2 teaspoons baking powder, sufficient flour to make a batter the consistency of hot cakes. Put a layer of thinly sliced apples in a buttered baking dish, pour batter over and bake. Serve with cream, either plain or whipped.

Celery is good cooked as you would potatoes au gratin, with white sauce, cheese and buttered crumbs.

When the tongue is ready to skin, remove the skins and hard portions and slice thin across the grain. Lay slices overlapping one another on the hot platter. Keep hot while making the sauce.

Melt the fat in the saucepan and add the flour; brown; stir in the tongue liquor, the salt, cloves, bay leaf, vinegar and sugar. Let simmer. Chop the shell and blanched almonds, cut the raisins and add to the sauce. Taste, seasoning more if necessary. Pour over the sliced tongue and serve VERY HOT.

THE CARE OF THE BABY
By Claire Morton.

A HEALTHY TAN.
CHILD accustomed gradually to the sun and the cold can play naked outdoors at a temperature of 45 degrees. A child so trained is bound to be healthy and strong and is sure never to be ill, other factors in his daily life being right.

But he must be accustomed to his sunbath gradually. When a baby is six weeks old, if the temperature is not lower than 45 degrees, he can have his face and hands exposed to the sun for about one minute. The next day you can increase the time to two minutes, and on the next day to five.

Soon you can expose his little feet, then the legs, the arms, the chest and the back, increasing the time of exposure gradually until the baby can play naked in the sun for thirty minutes and be glowing healthy and happy afterward. If he is a winter baby, by the time warm weather comes he can play

THE CARE OF THE WEANED AT NINE

By Claire Morton

THE perfect baby is weaned by the time he is 9 months old.

The tradition of motherhood is beautiful but arduous. Sentimental mothers impose almost impossible tasks and restrictions on the woman with a young baby.

"Doesn't dare" to leave the baby alone a minute. She must see every stitch of his clothing—preferably by hand. She must do all the baby's washing herself because she "can't trust any one else to do it properly."

And she is threatened with all sorts of possible consequences in the life and health of the baby if she doesn't nurse him as long as she is able.

So motherhood becomes an endless imposition which most mothers grow to resent. Secretly they hold their servitude as a grudge against their child. Consequently they want to exact payments from him later on.

The children's answer might be: "We didn't ask to be born." In this bare statement lies the basis of most unhappiness between mother and child.

It is far better to make the weaning of a baby as pleasant as possible. It makes being a mother more enjoyable.

That is one reason for weaning the baby at 9 months. Another and more important reason is: It is good for the child.

At 9 months, and even before, a child should begin eating other things than mother's milk. He needs the starches in potatoes for heat and energy. He needs the vitamins and carbohydrates in cereals. He needs the mineral and leafy substances of green vegetables to grow strong bones and good teeth and to avoid constipation. He needs the strength obtainable from meat broths.

Not even sentiment about the dear babe at the breast, or business about preparing the baby's food, should induce a mother ever to go beyond the 9 months before weaning the baby.

A Proper Flying C

By MARGUERITE MARTYN

AMELIA EARHART will be surprised to find herself posed as a fashion model. Not that the first woman to fly across the Atlantic has not a normal girl's reaction to admiration of her clothes.

She stood up and "modeled" her costume when we remarked upon it, with all the interest of a mannequin and, for the moment, as much concerned in "selling" the idea of it as in "selling" aviation to women.

The design of the costume is worth passing on, too. And since about everything has been told about Lindbergh's feminine prototype even before she came to attend the aeronautic conference here last week and let us see and hear her in person, I have elected to tell about the attractive, ingenious, all-purpose habit which she wore upon every occasion here and in which she was always suitably, even modestly attired.

When she landed in her own plane which she parked at Scott Field she was wearing what appeared to be a tailored suit of soft brown tweed, the material loosely woven and light in weight though heavy in texture, a real English fabric. The coat, finger-tip length, was straight and loose, though so well cut and made that it fell into graceful lines. The skirt was laid in deep side pleats attached to a hip-spread which had two buttons at the front. A panel of brown, beige and white printed flat crepe in a broken checked pattern showed as an inset at the front. Over the jacket was worn a kerchief scarf of the silk.

At Hotel Jefferson, when she arrived by motor, she removed her coat and appeared to be attired in a skirt and blouse in the tuck-in mode of the crepe already described. Getting settled in her room, by the simple expedient of unbuttoning the skirt and throwing it aside, she revealed in a complete frock of the printed crepe. At luncheon in her honor she appeared in the same frock, which, minus the scarf, proved to have a neck line cut in such a way as to give it all a more dramatic effect.

So there you are—four costumes in one, practically.

"No, I didn't design it, but wasn't it a lucky find?" she remarked, "since I can't be bothered with a lot of luggage and shopping for an elaborate wardrobe."

Her jewelry, too, was no less attractive than it was meaningful. The enameled regulation wings which is the insignia of her rank in the U. S. Reserve Aviation Corps, makes a decorative pin, and a technician whose links are enameled replicas of the signal flags used at sea and which spell the word Friendship in the international code was no less dainty than it was significant.

It is time women were thinking of what we shall wear while aviating. Just as we used to think in the early days of the automobile that we must be muffled in furs, goggles and dust caps, we may, by the example of Mrs. Earhart, learn the overalls, knickerbockers and all the trappings of the first air pilots are not absolutely necessary. That we may be amazingly and suitably attired for landing and as well as traveling by air transport.

Contact with Mrs. Earhart reveals her not without interest in aviation.

There is an extra thrill in driving when you fill up at a station that gives Eagle Stamps. Gasoline and oil cost no more there and the Eagle Stamps you get are just that much velvet. Keep your Eagle Stamp Book in the car and when it is filled exchange it free for more gasoline and oil—or cash.

Helping Ella Cinders Decide

ST. LOUIS, Mo.
Attention: Ella Cinders.
Dear Ella: Hurry up, Ella. Time is precious. Can't you see that Jim wants you? Jim is a nice young man, has plenty of "it," "that" and "those," and what about the ranch? Don't you like to live on ranches? It looks as though you really don't care for Jim, Ella. I only hope that you are not thinking about John Smith. John doesn't care for you as much as Jim, so go on Ella, marry Jim.
You wouldn't disappoint me, would you?
Hoping to hear that Jim is the lucky one, I beg to remain, Respectfully yours,
BUTTERSKY,
An Ella Cinders Admirer.
ST. LOUIS, Mo.
My Dear, Dear Ella: Don't be like that! Nobody will like you. Marry Jim Blunt instantly. He's a diamond in the rough. Think of the lonely years ahead of you—when you are old and gray and have no one to love you. Then what'll you do—oo-co? Take the advice from one who knows. There is nothing so peaceful as married life.
O. L. MADE.
VANDALE, III.
Dear Ella: I want you to have a career and marry Jim Blunt, too. I wish Jim would become an actor, and you and he could double your cowboy act by Jim helping you, then in the summer you'd both go West to Jim's ranch. Please marry Jim Blunt.
Sincerely,
"ORCHID."
GLENDAL, III.
Dear Miss Cinders: I think that you should marry Jim Blunt and give up your career. I am the father of seven children and I know what real happiness is. At night, when my wife gets "the blues" done, we sit on the porch and watch the autos go by and I think about whether all those people are as happy as I am. I know I am happy because of my wife and children. Jim Blunt would be the same. Marry him.
P. G. CHAMBERLAIN JR.,

ROCKWOOD, III.
Dear Ella Cinders, St. Louis, Mo.
I have taken the paper for three years. I have read your column and I want you to marry Jim Blunt and go West and be happy. Love and happiness is better than money.
ADELINE FULFORD.
LOUISIANA, Mo.
Dear Ella: I see you are undecided whether to give up your career or marry Jim Blunt. Please take my advice and go West with Jim. Ella, don't you know how

WALL STREET STOCK LIST IRREGULAR; LATE RALLY

Trading Largely Professional in Character—Few Speculative Favorites Prominent in Movements.

UTILITY STOCK IS A FEATURE OF TRADE

Copper Shares Fail to Hold Early Gains—Pig Iron Production in May Set Record for Month.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, June 5.—The stock market went through some violent contortions of price movement today with final quotations irregularly higher. The market turned heavy soon after the opening, rallied sharply before mid-day, turned heavy, again in mid-afternoon and then rallied briskly in the last few minutes of trading. Trading was largely professional in character, with the general public showing little inclination to follow up the advance in any but a few speculative favorites.

Fears that further restrictions on stock speculation may be placed by Congress, coupled with a rather widespread view that recent advance was due more to short-covering by professional traders who sold heavily in the recent decline than to fresh buying for investment account, had a restraining effect on bullish enthusiasm. Some uneasiness also was apparent over the credit situation although it was generally conceded that marked improvement had taken place in the last two weeks.

Call money held steady at 7 per cent all day. Time money was slightly easier, being quoted at 8 1/4 to 8 1/2 per cent. Directors of the Federal Reserve Bank met today but announced no change in the 5 per cent rediscount rate. Close attention is being paid to the action to be taken by the Bank of England directors tomorrow, in view of the recent withdrawal of gold in London and the consequent rise in the gold price in New York, but it is considered unlikely that any change in rate will be made with a new Government about to assume office.

Final quotations disclosed net declines of 3 points or so in such recent favorites as American Can, Montgomery-Ward and Radio. On the other hand, Commonwealth Power showed a net gain of 12 points at 210 1/2 after setting a new peak price at 212. Otis Elevator ran up 7 points to a new high at 52 1/2. Public service of New Jersey was marked up 1 point in the last few minutes of trading. Copper retained only a small part of their early gains of 1 1/2 to 5 points.

Wheat Price Down.
Wheat and corn futures lost about 2 cents a bushel on profit-taking following the recent split advance. Cotton prices lost 50 cents to 1 1/2 a bale on selling inspired by conflicting weather reports.

Foreign exchanges were mixed, with sterling cables slightly firmer and renewed heaviness in Japanese yen.

Bullish interpretation placed by many brokers on the news on the reparations settlement. Weekly steel trade reviews continued optimistic in tone. Iron Age, stating that pig iron production in May, usually a period of seasonal recession, established a new monthly record for both total output and rate per day. The report adds that "with June well begun, steel corporation subsidiaries are still producing at above rated capacity and independent mills are not far behind."

Commonwealth Power Feature.
A further rise in Commonwealth Power to new record levels proved the feature of the day in the utility section of the market. This sharp advance was looked upon as reflecting the strength in Commonwealth and Southern issues on the curb. This corporation, a new public utility investment enterprise, sponsored by bankers also back of the United Corporation, is reported to have made an offer to certain large minority interests in Commonwealth for an exchange of shares under the terms of which Commonwealth Power shareholders would get eight shares of Commonwealth and Southern Stock and four warrants for each share of their stock turned in for exchange.
